9 Bomb Explosions in Buenos Aires in 24 Hours

MOST OF THEM
OF SMALL SIZE,
NO CASUALTIES

UNCONFIRMED REPORTS GIVE
ACCOUNT OF FIFTEEN
EXPLOSIONS

OCCURRED AT ALMOST REGULAR INTERVALS DURING DAY AND NIGHT

Buenos Aires, Argentina, June 16.—(U.P.)—Police today announced that nine bomb explosions had occurred in Buenos Aires in the past 24 hours.

Unconfirmed reports said the total of these alarming explosions had reached 15. They occurred almost at regular intervals during the day and night.

Police said most of the bombs were small and caused no casualties. The damage, it was officially reported, was slight.

One bomb exploded in the Calle Florida, in the heart of the business district. A window in a department store was shattered and merchandise was damaged.

Another bomb exploded under a crowded street car. The car windows were broken, the police report said. A street car in the outskirts of the capital was bombed about midnight, without casualties.

The police did not reveal whether they had succeeded in apprehending the culprits.

The bombings occurred shortly after a large group of citizens had announced they would join the police in a campaign against terrorists and anarchists. They made plans for a national "security day," when citizens will be asked to contribute to a fund to provide police with modern equipment.

EPIDEMIC OF ESCAPES STRIKES COLORADO STATE PENITENTIARY

Canon City, Colo., June 16.—(U.P.)—Rebellious convicts watched warily today for every opportunity to leave the Colorado state penitentiary while Deputy Warden Roy Best sought desperately to plug guard leaks and restore order.

The prison personnel was bolstered heavily after the bloody riot of October, 1929, when eight guards in addition to five convicts lost their lives. Gradually, however, the guard force was reduced to save money.

Warden F. E. Crawford recently was given a vacation. The penitentiary apparently was calm again as the men forgot their futile attempt to gain freedom.

But last week an epidemic of escapes struck the prison, reviving hopes of many to win their freedom. Eleven prisoners disappeared, some from the prison farms, some by threatening guards. The depleted guard force was forced to divide into posses to seek the missing prisoners.

Deputy Warden Best announced there would be an entire reorganization of the penitentiary personnel before the disension now growing breaks out anew and flames into a repetition of the memorable days of 1929.

THREE TRAMPS RESCUE TWO BOYS AND A GIRL FROM LAKE MICHIGAN

Chicago, June 16.—(U.P.)—Three tramps sat in a lean-to on the shore of Lake Michigan at 16th street, watching the gulls and reveling in the June day beauty of the sky and water.

Suddenly they jumped to their feet. A motorboat had overturned a quarter mile out in the lake. Two boys and a girl were clinging to it.

There was only one rowboat handy. It leaked and had no oars. The tramps took it. Using their hands as paddles, two of them propelled it onto the lake while the other scooped out water with his palms.

Arriving at the overturned launch, the tramps rescued Robert Mayfield, 22; Frank Maxwell, 17, and Katherine Belchak, 19. The leaky boat was overloaded, so two of the men dropped over the sides and swam to shore, pushing the boat ahead of them.

The men accepted with smiles but no comment the thanks of the youths and the girl. They declined to give their names and as a crowd gathered slipped quietly away to build another lean-to and watch the gulls some more.

AUSTRIAN CABINET HAS RESIGNED

Vienna, Austria, June 16.—(U.P.)—The Austrian cabinet resigned today because of difficulties over solving the republic's financial difficulties.

The resignation was forecast a few hours earlier when Franz Winkler quit as minister of interior, because of his opposition to the government's action in guaranteeing the liabilities of the Austrian creditanstalt.

SIR HUBERT WILKINS TO REPAIR ENGINES OF THE NAUTILUS

Cherbourg, France, June 16.—(U.P.)—Sir Hubert Wilkins intends to repair the engines of the submarine Nautilus and proceed to ward the North Pole as soon as possible, Lady Wilkins said today.

Undaunted by the disaster which halted his reconstructed craft in mid-ocean, Sir Hubert wirelessed his plans to his wife as she passed within 30 miles of him aboard the liner Mauretania from New York to London.

Lady Wilkins revealed the interchange when the Mauretania arrived here today. She proceeded to Southampton.

FAITHFULL FAMILY BELIEVE STARR WAS MURDERED

REVEAL AMAZING INCIDENTS,
SOME REVOLTING, OF HER CHILDHOOD

SHE WAS VICTIM OF MAN OLD ENOUGH TO BE HER FATHER

The United Press has received from Stanley Faithfull, his wife and his stepdaughter Tucker Faithfull, intimate insights into the life of Starr Faithfull, whose body was found more than a week ago on the sands at Long Beach, L. I.

Since that time this country and foreign lands have read and pondered on the mystery of the girl's life and on the tragedy of her death. Murder, Faithfull insists, was done. Suicide, some say, may have ended the career of this cultured, well-educated girl.

The first installment of the amazing story of this girl follows and others will be presented throughout the week.

It is a strange history, giving a background to Faithfull's expressed conviction that his beautiful foster daughter was murdered.

New York, June 16.—Stanley Faithfull and his family believe that Starr Faithfull was murdered.

They told the United Press this today; at the same time unfolding a story, revolting and amazing, of incidents in her childhood which colored her after life and made her a girl of many moods—bordering on the confusing areas between the sane and insane.

It was a story of sex, the Faithfull family revealed exclusively to the United Press, in which, they said, she was the victim of a man old enough to be her father and with children of his own.

The girl's body was found by a beachcomber on the sands of Long Beach, L. I., more than a week ago, and today the cause of her death is still a mystery.

But to Stanley Faithfull and his family, the case gets down to the incidents of her childhood fundamentally. Somehow—they can't altogether explain it—the tragedy of her death goes back down the years when the man in question made her read to him extracts of sex writings of Havelock Ellis, and, they say, otherwise maltreated her.

Their story as outlined to the United Press is in many respects unprintable. The man in question is prominent and well-to-do, a respected member of the community in which he lives. He has children of his own. He was, according to the parents, "kind" to Starr and later to her pretty sister, Tucker.

The kindness and philanthropy, they told the United Press, were a cloak for a relationship that lasted for years and only came to light five years ago through an incident in a New York hotel.

The man etherized or chloroformed the girl on occasions and had through his maltreatment, warped her mind, Faithfull said. There are records of Starr writing of trips with the man to hotels at several points. The man's "kindness" cloaked his deeds, according to the Faithfulls, but one day she came home, distraught and troubled and told of a night in a New York hotel, at the recollection of which she shuddered.

She confided certain facts, and then the whole story of the man's maltreatment came from her. Faithfull checked up, and to his horror found many of the things the girl had related were true.

The Faithfulls debated the course to pursue.

Finally, the story was told to a society friend of Mrs. Faithfull. This woman in turn told her husband and the latter consulted a lawyer.

Starr had to have alienist and medical treatment, and on this theory it was argued the man in question should

6,000 Miners Mobilize For Crisis in Ohio's Strike in Bituminous Coal Mining Industry

GRIM STRUGGLE FOR EXISTENCE IS NOW BEING WAGED

STRIKE SPREADING SLOWLY TO
INCLUDE PRACTICALLY EVERY
MINE IN AREA

STORM CENTER OF STRUGGLE
SHIFTS TO DOROTHY MINES
NEAR MARTIN'S FERRY

St. Clairsville, O., June 16.—(U.P.)—Ohio's bituminous coal mining industry was in the throes of a grim struggle for existence today as forces for and against the strike of 6,000 miners mobilized for the impending crisis.

With the strike spreading slowly to include practically every mine in the area, special deputies and allied members of the American Legion armed themselves to protect attacks on the few miners who remain at work. Fourteen men were held in the Belmont county jail as alleged strike leaders.

The storm center of the struggle shifted from New Lafferty to the Dorothy mines, near Martin's Ferry, which strikers planned to start picketing today. Sheriff Howard Duff announced he will break up attempts to picket the mines. His force of special deputies was assembled here for the anticipated struggle.

According to Sheriff Duff, the four men arrested yesterday after an incendiary fire in the wash-house at the Big Run mine confessed they set fire to the building. The prisoners, however, vigorously deny that they have confessed. They are being held on an open charge. Leo Thompson, Pittsburgh, and four companion prisoners who were arrested as they led demonstrations, ended a five days' hunger strike last night.

Indicative of the temper of county officials was the arrest at Elm Grove, W. Va., of a Pittsburgh reporter as he stood on the front porch of a company-owned home chatting with a miner. He was placed under arrest by a mine guard charged with trespassing and bound over for trial in superior court under bond.

AL CAPONE, CRUSHED AND BROKEN IN COURT

PLEADS GUILTY TO DEFRAUD-
ING THE GOVERNMENT
OF $200,000

MARK'S CLIMAX OF FEDERAL
GOVERNMENT'S EFFORT TO
STAMP OUT CRIME

By RAY BRENNAN
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

Chicago, June 16.—Al Capone, his underworld power crushed by the United States government, stood in federal court today and pleaded guilty to defrauding the nation of almost $200,000 in income taxes gained conducting a $200,000,000 beer combine.

The plea of the fallen gangster marked the climax of the government's effort to stamp out syndicated crime rule in the country's second largest city—a drive started when city and state governments seemed helpless to smash Capone's stranglehold.

Sentence of the gangster was deferred by Judge James H. Wilkerson until June 30 at 2 P. M.

The indictments carry a possible total of 34 years in prison and $90,000 in fines for the swagging gangster who before today always had adopted an airy attitude in his infrequent court appearances.

It was understood that Capone's term would be set at two and one-half years with a stiff fine—probably $10,000.

Capone, wearing a tan suit and a sailor hat, walked into the court room 10 minutes before his case was called. During the short wait he stood chatting in low tones with his companions.

The corridors, entrances and elevators of the federal building were jammed with hundreds of curious spectators. Many girls and women were in the crowd, standing on tip toe to catch a glimpse of the gang leader.

Capone took his place before Judge Wilkerson, his head slightly bowed.

Six policemen stood in a circle about him. Deputy marshals were distributed around the room, which was packed to the aisles by curious persons who craned their necks to get a glimpse of the gangster.

Dwight Green, assistant district attorney in charge of the income tax, faced the gangster and asked in legal terms:

"Did you violate the United States income tax laws in 1924?"

Capone dropped his gaze and hesitated a moment. The court room was silent. Then he said hardly above a whisper:

"Yes, I'm guilty."

"Not a stir was heard in the court room as the gangster admitted that he was in effect out of the crime picture he has so long dominated."

As he made the admission, Capone wet his lips and raised on his toes.

Green then went through the same questioning for the years 1925, '26, '27, '28 and '29. Each time the gangster, facing the only power that ever had threatened him with a stiff sentence, said in a low voice:

"Guilty."

Then Victor LaRue, first assistant district attorney who was partly responsible for bringing the "worst gangster of all time" before the bar of justice, took up the questioning.

Facing Capone with a glint of victory in his eye, LaRue asked:

"Did you and sundry others conspire to violate certain sections of the national prohibition laws?"

"Yes, I'm guilty," came from Capone's lips as he teetered on his heels.

Judge Wilkerson then set the time for sentencing for June 30 at 2 P. M. Capone, still flanked by police and deputy marshals, turned and walked from the court room and out of the federal building, free on bond of $50,000 which covers both income tax and prohibition charges.

Capone, as he walked into the federal building refused to talk to the myriad of reporters and camera men who besieged him.

From his escort it was learned, however, that he was "satisfied to have it all over with" and was "willing to take a little time."

GOAD CAPTAIN TO SAIL AGAINST HIS JUDGMENT

SOME EXCURSIONISTS TAUNTED
HIM AS "FRESH WATER SAILOR"

CAPTAIN OF FRENCH EXCURSION
BOAT SET OUT AS HURRI-
CANE BREWED

Saint Nazaire, France, June 16.—(U.P.)—Taunts by passengers that he was a "fresh water sailor" angered the captain of the pleasure boat Saint Philibert into taking his ship to sea on its last fatal voyage, inquiry into the disaster revealed today.

Excursionists whom Captain Olive had taken to the island of Noirmoutier, in the Bay of Biscay, for a day's outing pressed the captain to risk the return to Nantes up the Loire river, it was said.

Against his better judgment, survivors of Sunday's disaster said at the inquiry today, the captain consented and put to sea with his barometers showing him a storm of hurricane intensity was brewing. It sank the boat with all on board and all but seven perished. The captain, on the bridge, went down with his ship. Estimate of the total dead remained uncertain today, but authorities said as many as 450 may have been lost.

The inquiry developed conflicting evidence. Several of the survivors insisted that a boiler had exploded. However, only a little floating wreckage was found and the bodies recovered were not mutilated, indications to the contrary. Divers reported finding scores of bodies together in an attitude of terror and despair.

The Saint Philibert was found lying in 36 feet of water on rock shelf. Divers prepared to remove the bodies. They estimated 100 still were imprisoned in cabins.

Most of the victims were workers from Nantes. The bodies recovered were taken to the Duchesse Anne's castle at Nantes, including 11 victims from the same family. They will be given a mass burial, probably tomorrow.

Government experts sought to place the responsibility for the disaster, particularly trying to determine whether the boat was overloaded.

Capone, as he walked into the federal building refused to talk to the myriad of reporters and camera men who besieged him.

From his escort it was learned, however, that he was "satisfied to have it all over with" and was "willing to take a little time."

CRISIS IN ENGLISH LABOR GOVERNMENT FINALLY AVERTED

By KEITH JONES
United Press Staff Correspondent

London, June 16.—The crisis that threatened the labor government over its land tax measure was averted today when Premier J. Ramsay MacDonald accepted the amendment, as redrafted, subject to reconsideration of certain details. The threatened crisis in the house of commons this evening therefore would pass over, he said. The announcement meant that the amendment would go through but would not constitute a government defeat, since the labor party would not be in the position of opposing it.

By WILLIAM H. LANDER
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

Madrid, June 16.—The republican regime faced the threat of serious disorders in strong Catholic sections of the country today as a result of the deportation of Cardinal Segura, primate of Spain.

Cardinal Segura crossed the border into France at 4:30 A. M., at San Sebastian. He was hurried out of the country only a few days after his return from Rome, where he reported to Pope Pius XI on recent anti-religious riots in Spain.

Deportation of the primate was accompanied by disturbances in which one person was killed and 40 injured.

Only a few persons learned of the plans for departure and gathered in front of the monastery where the cardinal had been detained by the authorities. Several shouts of "death to the clergy! Long live the republic!" were raised, but the police quickly silenced the demonstrators.

It had been understood that the cardinal and three companions first were halted by authorities near Guadalajara, on their way to Saragossa, last Friday, but the government censored all news regarding the primate, to prevent hostile demonstrations.

Cardinal Segura, whose pastoral letter and other declarations urging Catholics to take an active part in the forthcoming national elections were considered hostile by the government, began his journey into exile from Guadalajara to the French frontier at 4:45 P. M. yesterday.

His deportation again aroused the religious question, one of the most complex faced by the government since it declared its policy of working toward complete separation of church and state. Fears of further disorders were expressed, and precautions will be taken to maintain order among the more extreme elements.

Serious disorders broke out last Sunday at a mass meeting of 20,000 Catholics at Pamplona City, where 16 were hurt. An excursion train carrying a party of Catholics was attacked by republicans in Aragon, who hurled stones at the coaches. Many became alarmed, and one man was killed while trying to get out of the coaches. He fell beneath the train. Others were injured. Feeling continued intense in many sections.

Vatican City, June 16.—The pope directed the papal nuncio at Madrid today to protest to the Spanish government against the expulsion of Cardinal Segura, primate of Spain.

CLAIMS HARDING GAVE HIS LIFE FOR HIS COUNTRY

PRES. EXPRESSES HIMSELF ON
CONDUCT OF ASSOCIATES IN THAT REGIME

SAYS "HARDING'S SOUL SEARED
BY A GREAT DISILLU-
SIONMENT"

By RAYMOND CLAPPER
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

Marion, O., June 16.—The late President Harding was betrayed by some of his associates who not only deceived him but betrayed their country in a way for which punishment can never atone, President Hoover said in dedicating the memorial here where the late President and Mrs. Harding are buried.

"Warren Harding gave his life in worthy accomplishment for his country," Mr. Hoover said as he sought to vindicate the memory of his chief by branding with withering scorn such as has rarely come from a chief executive, those who were false to their trust.

In the presence of former President Calvin Coolidge and many others who served in the Harding administration, Mr. Hoover for the first time publicly expressed himself on the conduct of some associates in that regime.

Referring to the fact that he accompanied the late president on the fatal Alaskan trip, Mr. Hoover described how he observed Harding then on the threshold of death, as a man whose "soul had been seared by a great disillusionment" gradually weakened not only from physical exhaustion but from worry over the conduct of some of his intimates.

This betrayal, Mr. Hoover said, "was the tragedy of the life of Warren Harding."

The president paid tribute to the "kindly and gentle spirit" of Harding and described him as a man of delicate sense of honor" especially fitted to restore tranquility and heal the rancors left by the world war. Mr. Hoover summarized briefly the achievements of Harding's two years in the White House, climaxed by the Washington arms conference, and then turned to the tragic picture of the president straining to go through with his long trip in the west, but being crushed under the weight of great anxiety.

"His companions on that journey realized full well that he had overstrained even his robust strength in the gigantic task which confronted him during the previous two years," Mr. Hoover said, "and he came also to know that here was a man whose soul was being seared by a great disillusionment. We saw him gradually weaken not only from physical exhaustion but from mental anxiety. Warren Harding had a dim realization that he had been betrayed by a few of the men whom he had trusted, by men whom he had believed were his devoted friends. It was later proved in the courts of the land that these men had betrayed not alone the friendship and trust of their staunch and loyal friend but they had betrayed their country. That was the tragedy of the life of Warren Harding."

"There are disloyalties and there are crimes which shock our sensibilities, which may bring suffering. But there is no disloyalty and no crime in all the category of human weaknesses which compares with the failure of probity in the conduct of public trust. Monetary loss or even the shock to moral sensibilities is perhaps a passing thing, but the breaking down of the faith of a people in the honesty of their government and in the integrity of their institutions, the lowering of respect for the standards of honor which prevail in high places, are crimes for which punishment can never atone."

Mr. Hoover described Harding as a man of "passionate patriotism" and "deep religious feeling." He closed with a quotation from the last public statement of Harding which declared "Christ was the prince of peace and we who seek to render his name glorious must move in the ways of peace and brotherhood and loving service."

Mr. Hoover added "He gave his life in that spirit, and in that spirit we pay tribute to his memory."

Buenos Aires, Argentina, June 16.—(U.P.)—Police today announced that nine bomb explosions had occurred in Buenos Aires in the past 24 hours. Unconfirmed reports said the total of these alarming explosions had reached 15. They occurred almost at regular intervals during the day and night.

Police said most of the bombs were small and caused no casualties. The damage, it was officially reported, was slight.

One bomb exploded in the Calle Florida, in the heart of the business district. A window in a department store was shattered and merchandise was damaged.

Another bomb exploded under a crowded street car. The car windows were broken, the police report said. A street car in the outskirts of the capital was bombed about midnight, without casualties.

The police did not reveal whether they had succeeded in apprehending the culprits.

The bombings occurred shortly after a large group of citizens had announced they would join the police in a campaign against terrorists and anarchists. They made plans for a national "security day," when citizens will be asked to contribute to a fund to provide police with modern equipment.

New York, June 16.—Stanley Faithfull and his family believe that Starr Faithfull was murdered. They told the United Press this today: at the same time unfolding a story, revolting and amazing, of incidents in her childhood which colored her after life and made her a girl of many moods—bordering on the confusing areas between the sane and insane.

It was a story of sex, the Faithfull family revealed exclusively to the United Press, in which, they said, she was the victim of a man old enough to be her father and with children of his own.

The girl's body was found by a beachcomber on the sands of Long Beach, L. I., more than a week ago, and today the cause of her death is still a mystery.

But to Stanley Faithfull and his family, the case gets down to the incidents of her childhood fundamentally. Somehow—they can't altogether explain it—the tragedy of her death goes back down the years when the man in question made her read to him extracts of sex writings of Havelock Ellis, and, they say, otherwise maltreated her.

Their story as outlined to the United Press is in many respects unprintable. The man in question is prominent and well-to-do, a respected member of the community in which he lives. He has children of his own. He was, according to the parents, "kind" to Starr and later to her pretty sister, Tucker.

The kindness and philanthropy, they told the United Press, were a cloak for a relationship that lasted for years and only came to light five years ago through an incident in a New York hotel.

The man etherized or chloroformed the girl on occasions and had through his maltreatment, warped her mind, Faithfull said. There are records of Starr writing of trips with the man to hotels at several points. The man's "kindness" cloaked his deeds, according to the Faithfulls, but one day she came home, distraught and troubled and told of a night in a New York hotel, at the recollection of which she shuddered.

She confided certain facts, and then the whole story of the man's maltreatment came from her. Faithfull checked up, and to his horror found many of the things the girl had related were true.

The Faithfulls debated the course to pursue. Finally, the story was told to a society friend of Mrs. Faithfull. This woman in turn told her husband and the latter consulted a lawyer.

Starr had to have alienist and medical treatment, and on this theory it was argued the man in question should be kept in custody.

6,000 Miners Mobilize For Crisis in Ohio's Strike in Bituminous Coal Mining Industry

GRIM STRUGGLE FOR EXISTENCE IS NOW BEING WAGED

STRIKE SPREADING SLOWLY TO
INCLUDE PRACTICALLY EVERY
MINE IN AREA

STORM CENTER OF STRUGGLE
SHIFTS TO DOROTHY MINES
NEAR MARTIN'S FERRY

St. Clairsville, O., June 16.—(U.P.)—Ohio's bituminous coal mining industry was in the throes of a grim struggle for existence today as forces for and against the strike of 6,000 miners mobilized for the impending crisis.

With the strike spreading slowly to include practically every mine in the area, special deputies and allied members of the American Legion armed themselves to protect attacks on the few miners who remain at work. Fourteen men were held in the Belmont county jail as alleged strike leaders.

The storm center of the struggle shifted from New Lafferty to the Dorothy mines, near Martin's Ferry, which strikers planned to start picketing today. Sheriff Howard Duff announced he will break up attempts to picket the mines. His force of special deputies was assembled here for the anticipated struggle.

According to Sheriff Duff, the four men arrested yesterday after an incendiary fire in the wash-house at the Big Run mine confessed they set fire to the building. The prisoners, however, vigorously deny that they have confessed. They are being held on an open charge. Leo Thompson, Pittsburgh, and four companion prisoners who were arrested as they led demonstrations, ended a five days' hunger strike last night.

Indicative of the temper of county officials was the arrest at Elm Grove, W. Va., of a Pittsburgh reporter as he stood on the front porch of a company-owned home chatting with a miner. He was placed under arrest by a mine guard charged with trespassing and bound over for trial in superior court under bond.

'GLORIFIES CRIMES OF ALLEY RATS,' SAYS THIS CRITIC

Indianapolis, June 15.—(U.P.)—The metropolitan newspaper "worships at the shrine of the succulent highball and glorifies the crimes of alley rats," Charles U. Becker, Missouri secretary of state, told the Indiana Republican Editorial association.

"The people must turn to the country press for the saving of our political parties," he added.

"Most metropolitan newspapers have no party affiliations and are therefore outspoken enemies of our republican form of government," Becker, a former Kansas City newspaperman, said.

"They are constant worshippers at the shrine of the succulent highball and their banner head news is generally about the glorification of the crimes of alley rats, of intellectual and moral degenerates, and the social achievements of lounge lizards and cigarette smoking flappers in the nude and near nude."

AL CAPONE, CRUSHED AND BROKEN IN COURT

PLEADS GUILTY TO DEFRAUD-
ING THE GOVERNMENT
OF $200,000

MARK'S CLIMAX OF FEDERAL GOVERNMENT'S EFFORT TO
STAMP OUT CRIME

By RAY BRENNAN
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

Chicago, June 16.—Al Capone, his underworld power crushed by the United States government, stood in federal court today and pleaded guilty to defrauding the nation of almost $200,000 in income taxes gained conducting a $200,000,000 beer combine.

The plea of the fallen gangster marked the climax of the government's effort to stamp out syndicated crime rule in the country's second largest city—a drive started when city and state governments seemed helpless to smash Capone's strangle hold.

Sentence of the gangster was deferred by Judge James H. Wilkerson until June 30 at 2 P. M.

The indictments carry a possible total of 34 years in prison and $90,000 in fines for the swagging gangster who before today always had adopted an airy attitude in his infrequent court appearances.

It was understood that Capone's term would be set at two and one-half years with a stiff fine—probably $10,000.

Capone, wearing a tan suit and a sailor hat, walked into the court room 10 minutes before his case was called. During the short wait he stood chatting in low tones with his companions.

The corridors, entrances and elevators of the federal building were jammed with hundreds of curious spectators. Many girls and women were in the crowd, standing on tip toe to catch a glimpse of the gang leader.

Capone took his place before Judge Wilkerson, his head slightly bowed.

Six policemen stood in a circle about him. Deputy marshals were distributed around the room, which was packed to the aisles by curious persons who craned their necks to get a glimpse of the gangster.

Dwight Green, assistant district attorney in charge of the income tax, faced the gangster and asked in legal terms:

"Did you violate the United States income tax laws in 1924?"

Capone dropped his gaze and hesitated a moment. The court room was silent. Then he said hardly above a whisper:

"Yes, I'm guilty."

Then Victor LaRue, first assistant district attorney who was partly responsible for bringing the "worst gangster of all time" before the bar of justice, took up the questioning.

Facing Capone with a glint of victory in his eye, LaRue asked:

"Did you and sundry others con-

CAPTAIN OF FRENCH EXCURSION
BOAT SET OUT AS HURRI-CANE BREWED

Saint Nazaire, France, June 16.—(U.P.)—Taunts by passengers that he was a "fresh water sailor" angered the captain of the pleasure boat Saint Philibert into taking his ship to sea on its last fatal voyage, inquiry into the disaster revealed today.

Excursionists whom Captain Olive had taken to the island of Noirmoutier, in the Bay of Biscay, for a day's outing pressed the captain to risk the return to Nantes up the Loire river, it was said.

Against his better judgment, survivors of Sunday's disaster said at the inquiry today, the captain consented and put to sea with his barometers showing him a storm of hurricane intensity was brewing. It sank the boat with all on board and all but seven perished. The captain, on the bridge, went down with his ship. Estimate of the total dead remained uncertain today, but authorities said as many as 450 may have been lost.

The inquiry developed conflicting evidence. Several of the survivors insisted that a boiler had exploded. However, only a little floating wreckage was found and the bodies recovered were not mutilated, indications to the contrary. Divers reported finding scores of bodies together in an attitude of terror and despair.

The Saint Philibert was found lying in 36 feet of water on rock shelf. Divers prepared to remove the bodies. They estimated 100 still were imprisoned in cabins.

Most of the victims were workers from Nantes. The bodies recovered were taken to the Duchesse Anne's castle at Nantes, including 11 victims from the same family. They will be given a mass burial, probably tomorrow.

Government experts sought to place the responsibility for the disaster, particularly trying to determine whether the boat was overloaded.

Capone, as he walked into the federal building refused to talk to the myriad of reporters and camera men who besieged him.

From his escort it was learned, however, that he was "satisfied to have it all over with" and was "willing to take a little time."

CRISIS IN ENGLISH LABOR GOVERNMENT FINALLY AVERTED

By KEITH JONES
United Press Staff Correspondent

London, June 16.—The crisis that threatened the labor government over its land tax measure was averted today when Premier J. Ramsay MacDonald accepted the amendment, as redrafted, subject to reconsideration of certain details. The threatened crisis in the house of commons this evening therefore would pass over, he said. The announcement meant that the amendment would go through but would not constitute a government defeat, since the labor party would not be in the position of opposing it.

SPANISH REGIME FACES THREAT OF GRAVE DISORDERS

STRONG CATHOLIC SECTIONS OF
THE COUNTRY ARE DEEPLY
AROUSSED

TAKE OFFENSE TO DEPORTA-TION OF CARDINAL SEGURA,
PRIMATE OF SPAIN

By WILLIAM H. LANDER
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

Madrid, June 16.—The republican regime faced the threat of serious disorders in strong Catholic sections of the country today as a result of the deportation of Cardinal Segura, primate of Spain.

Cardinal Segura crossed the border into France at 4:30 A. M., at San Sebastian. He was hurried out of the country only a few days after his return from Rome, where he reported to Pope Pius XI on recent anti-religious riots in Spain.

Deportation of the primate was accompanied by disturbances in which one person was killed and 40 injured.

Only a few persons learned of the plans for departure and gathered in front of the monastery where the cardinal had been detained by the authorities. Several shouts of "death to the clergy! Long live the republic!" were raised, but the police quickly silenced the demonstrators.

It had been understood that the cardinal and three companions first were halted by authorities near Guadalajara, on their way to Saragossa, last Friday, but the government censored all news regarding the primate, to prevent hostile demonstrations.

Cardinal Segura, whose pastoral letter and other declarations urging Catholics to take an active part in the forthcoming national elections were considered hostile by the government, began his journey into exile from Guadalajara to the French frontier at 4:45 P. M. yesterday.

His deportation again aroused the religious question, one of the most complex faced by the government since it declared its policy of working toward complete separation of church and state. Fears of further disorders were expressed, and precautions will be taken to maintain order among the more extreme elements.

Serious disorders broke out last Sunday at a mass meeting of 20,000 Catholics at Pamplona City, where 16 were hurt. An excursion train carrying a party of Catholics was attacked by republicans in Aragon, who hurled stones at the coaches. Many became alarmed, and one man was killed while trying to get out of the coaches. He fell beneath the train. Others were injured. Feeling continued intense in many sections.

Vatican City, June 16.—The pope directed the papal nuncio at Madrid today to protest to the Spanish government against the expulsion of Cardinal Segura, primate of Spain.

CLAIMS HARDING GAVE HIS LIFE FOR HIS COUNTRY

PRES. EXPRESSES HIMSELF ON
CONDUCT OF ASSOCIATES IN THAT REGIME

SAYS "HARDING'S SOUL SEARED
BY A GREAT DISILLU-SIONMENT"

By RAYMOND CLAPPER
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

Marion, O., June 16.—The late President Harding was betrayed by some of his associates who not only deceived him but betrayed their country in a way for which punishment can never atone, President Hoover said in dedicating the memorial here where the late President and Mrs. Harding are buried.

"Warren Harding gave his life in worthy accomplishment for his country," Mr. Hoover said as he sought to vindicate the memory of his chief by branding with withering scorn such as has rarely come from a chief executive, those who were false to their trust.

In the presence of former President Calvin Coolidge and many others who served in the Harding administration, Mr. Hoover for the first time publicly expressed himself on the conduct of some associates in that regime.

Referring to the fact that he accompanied the late president on the fatal Alaskan trip, Mr. Hoover described how he observed Harding then on the threshold of death, as a man whose "soul had been seared by a great disillusionment" gradually weakened not only from physical exhaustion but from worry over the conduct of some of his intimates.

This betrayal, Mr. Hoover said, "was the tragedy of the life of Warren Harding."

The president paid tribute to the "kindly and gentle spirit" of Harding and described him as a man "of delicate sense of honor" especially fitted to restore tranquility and heal the rancors left by the world war. Mr. Hoover summarized briefly the achievements of Harding's two years in the White House, climaxed by the Washington arms conference, and then turned to the tragic picture of the president straining to go through with his long trip in the west, but being crushed under the weight of great anxiety.

"His companions on that journey realized full well that he had strained even his robust strength in the gigantic task which confronted him during the previous two years," Mr. Hoover said, "and he came also to know that here was a man whose soul was being seared by a great disillusionment. We saw him gradually weaken not only from physical exhaustion but from mental anxiety. Warren Harding had a dim realization that he had been betrayed by a few of the men whom he had trusted, by men whom he had believed were his devoted friends. It was later proved in the courts of the land that these men had betrayed not alone the friendship and trust of their staunch and loyal friend but they had betrayed their country. That was the tragedy of the life of Warren Harding."

"There are disloyalties and there are crimes which shock our sensibilities, which may bring suffering. But there is no disloyalty and no crime in all the category of human weaknesses which compares with the failure of probity in the conduct of public trust. Monetary loss or even the shock to moral sensibilities is perhaps a passing thing, but the breaking down of the faith of a people in the honesty of their government and in the integrity of their institutions, the lowering of respect for the standards of honor which prevail in high places, are crimes for which punishment can never atone."

Mr. Hoover described Harding as a man of "passionate patriotism" and "deep religious feeling." He closed with a quotation from the last public statement of Harding which declared "Christ was the prince of peace and we who seek to render his name glorious must move in the ways of peace and brotherhood and loving service."

Mr. Hoover added "He gave his life in that spirit, and in that spirit we pay tribute to his memory."

Mme. Schumann-Heink Wins $75,000 Judgment Against Edwin Carewe

Los Angeles, Calif., June 16.—(U.P.)—Judgment of $75,000, the full amount asked, was recorded in superior court today in favor of Madame Ernestine Schumann-Heink in her breach of contract suit against Edwin Carewe, film producer.

Madame Schumann-Heink claimed Carewe agreed in 1929 to produce a motion picture in which she was to be starred and that she lost a full season of concert engagements through his failure to make the pictures.

Ferdinand Schumann-Heink, son of the singer, who claimed he was to have a leading part in the picture, was awarded $500 of the $11,000 he sought to recover from Carewe.

Carewe contended that the contract was terminated when an English company failed to supply financial backing.

D. A. R. WELCOMES ITS STATE REGENT

Miss Minnie M. Dilley Provides Interesting Discourse at Parkerville Meeting

EVENT PROVES NOTABLE

Pays Tribute to Work of Mrs. Bronson in Presenting Miniature "Prairie Madonna"

The Samuel Huntington Chapter, D. A. R. held the closing meeting of the year at "Parkerville," North Long Lake, yesterday afternoon—one of the most notable meetings in the chapter's history.

To begin with—it was June at Parkerville, which means environment of absolute beauty. The hostesses were Mrs. Lucy Wieland, Mrs. Hattie Parker and her daughter, Mrs. Ethel Campbell, which insured perfection of detail in the 1 o'clock luncheon served to the 25 guests present.

The guests-of-honor were Miss Minnie M. Dilley, State Regent of the society—and her friend, Miss Laura M. Nutting, both of Northfield, Minn. Second only to these distinguished guests were Mrs. Dorothy Scott Radcliffe, regent of the "Northland" chapter of Aitkin, and Mrs. Marcia Potter Ross, Mrs. Cora Hunt Weisback, and Mrs. Mae Thayer Youngberg, members of the Aitkin chapter.

The ordinary business of the chapter, at the meeting following the luncheon, was quickly transacted, to make way for the address of the state regent, Miss Dilley, who began by voicing her delight in the beauty of the region and the day. Calling attention to the fact that we were celebrating Flag Day, she spoke of the flag—of its symbolism, which connected the visible with the invisible, and of some of the things which it symbolized to us all. She told of a little girl of the southern mountains—one of that intrinsically fine but ignorant and poverty-stricken class of people who are being reached by the Tamassee school of South Carolina, and the State School of Alabama, maintained by the D. A. R. This child had had her attention called to the flag of her country, and its meaning explained, her teacher concluding with an earnest admonition "to give three cheers to Our Flag!" Some time later, this teacher visited the child in her cabin home, and found that she had toiled over the construction of a flag, from her own scant petticoat and her father's overalls, and had placed it reverently over the broken backs of two chairs in the center of the one room. To this rude altar she led her teacher, explaining shyly—"I'm pow'ful sorry, teacher Ma'am but we hain't got three cheers! We've just got these two!"

This led up to the subject of patriotic education, and the Tamassee school, where a new dormitory and dining room have been added during the past two years, and a picture was shown of the four girls from this school who visited Washington during the D. A. R. national conference in April, and were received at the White House by President and Mrs. Hoover.

Miss Dilley spoke briefly on all the various phases of D. A. R. work—the "Americanization" projects, particularly at Ellis Island; scholarships, particularly the "Maria Sanford" fund; historical research; support of the Girl Homemakers and Girl Scouts; and national defense, "which must now lie in the development of good citizenship, rather than in maintaining physical barriers." She spoke also of the Sibley House at Mendota, enjoining members to promote the visiting of this historic landmark among the tourists who come to our lake country, and calling attention to the loyalty and devotion of the "Twincitians" who keep the project running so smoothly.

In closing, Miss Dilley commended the Samuel Huntington chapter for their zeal in helping in all of these movements, and extended special greetings to the chapter from the "Josiah Edson" chapter of Northfield, which, like the Samuel Huntington chapter, was organized by Mrs. Martha Ann Bronson of Northfield, to whom the Northfield chapter sent a beautiful replica, in miniature, of the recently unveiled statue of the "Prairie Madonna."

"Mrs. Bronson has represented to us of Northfield, as I am sure she has to you of Brainerd, the highest type of the pioneer women in whose honor this statue has been erected," said Miss Dilley, as Miss Nutting, a charter member of the "Josiah Edson" chapter, assisted her in removing the wrappings and laying this gracious gift in the hands of the woman who so ably presides over the Samuel Huntington chapter.

Following Miss Dilley's address, Miss Nutting added a few words of appreciation and greeting to Mrs. Bronson and the chapter—as did Mrs. Radcliffe and Mrs. Spalding, in behalf of the Aitkin chapter.

Mrs. Parker then introduced Rev. Mr. Ford, a missionary to the Philippines now vacationing at "Parkerville." Mr. Ford spoke briefly but most effectively on the Philippine struggle for independence and their reasons for wanting their freedom from our sovereignty. In answer to a question as to the fitness of the Philippines to govern themselves, he said: "perhaps not as fit as Minnesotans, (with a smile and a bow)—but certainly quite as fit as the majority of—Chicagoans, shall we say?" Mr. Ford is to address the Rotarians on this subject, and certainly no one who has the opportunity should miss hearing Mr. Ford on this vital subject, since he is a fine speaker and well-informed.

LOOK OVER SITES FOR PRISON FARM

BRAINERD FILLS BILL

Knutson Assures Committee He Will Do All in His Power to Help City

With the cooperation of Congressman Harold Knutson, Brainerd stands a good chance in being selected the site for the new Federal Prison Farm to be established by the Federal Government.

In company with Mr. Knutson and Mr. Bates, superintendent of Federal Prisons at Washington, D. C., a special Chamber of Commerce committee consisting of Walter P. Tyrholm, C. A. Ryan and F. N. Russell, Monday visited three sites near Brainerd under consideration.

The inspection included sites a short distance east of Brainerd, another west of Brainerd on the river bank and the third four miles west of Brainerd.

The committee assured Mr. Knutson and Mr. Bates that any site they desired in this locality could be secured at a reasonable cost.

Mr. Bates said that waste land was desirable for reclamation purposes, that the farm would require 1500 acres. He said the site desired was near a railroad, near a river and near a trunk highway.

Land adjacent to Brainerd would fill all requirements, the committee explained to him.

Congressman Knutson assured the Brainerd committee that he would do all in his power to help Brainerd receive the choice.

Mr. Tyrholm, chairman of the special Chamber committee said that the committee would be enlarged.

D. A. R. WELCOMES ITS STATE REGENT

Miss Minnie M. Dilley Provides Interesting Discourse at Parkerville Meeting

EVENT PROVES NOTABLE

Pays Tribute to Work of Mrs. Bronson in Presenting Miniature "Prairie Madonna"

The Samuel Huntington Chapter, D. A. R. held the closing meeting of the year at "Parkerville," North Long Lake, yesterday afternoon—one of the most notable meetings in the chapter's history.

To begin with—it was June at Parkerville, which means environment of absolute beauty. The hostesses were Mrs. Lucy Wieland, Mrs. Hattie Parker and her daughter, Mrs. Ethel Campbell, which insured perfection of detail in the 1 o'clock luncheon served to the 25 guests present.

The guests-of-honor were Miss Minnie M. Dilley, State Regent of the society—and her friend, Miss Laura M. Nutting, both of Northfield, Minn. Second only to these distinguished guests were Mrs. Dorothy Scott Radcliffe, regent of the "Northland" chapter of Aitkin, and Mrs. Anise Tibbetts Spalding, Mrs. Marcia Potter Ross, Mrs. Cora Hunt Weisback, and Mrs. Mae Thayer Youngberg, members of the Aitkin chapter.

The ordinary business of the chapter, at the meeting following the luncheon, was quickly transacted, to make way for the address of the state regent, Miss Dilley, who began by voicing her delight in the beauty of the region and the day. Calling attention to the fact that we were celebrating Flag Day, she spoke of the flag—of its symbolism, which connected the visible with the invisible and of some of the things which it symbolized to us all. She told of a little girl of the southern mountains—one of that intrinsically fine but ignorant and poverty-stricken class of people who are being reached by the Tamassee school of South Carolina, and the State School of Alabama, maintained by the D. A. R. This child had had her attention called to the flag of her country, and its meaning explained, her teacher concluding with an earnest admonition "to give three cheers to Our Flag!" Some time later, this teacher visited the child in her cabin home, and found that she had toiled over the construction of a flag, from her own scant petticoats and her father's overalls, and had placed it reverently over the broken backs of two chairs in the center of the one room. To this rude altar she led her teacher, explaining shyly: "I'm pow'ful sorry, teacher Ma'am but we hain't got three cheers! We've just got these two!"

This led up to the subject of patriotic education, and the Tamassee school, where a new dormitory and dining room have been added during the past two years, and a picture was shown of the four girls from this school who visited Washington during the D. A. R. national conference in April, and were received at the White House by President and Mrs. Hoover.

Miss Dilley spoke briefly on all the various phases of D. A. R. work—the "Americanization" projects, particularly at Ellis Island; scholarships, particularly the "Maria Sanford" fund; historical research; support of the Girl Homemakers and Girl Scouts; and national defense, "which must now lie in the development of good citizenship, rather than in maintaining physical barriers." She spoke also of the Sibley House at Mendota, enjoining members to promote the visiting of this historic landmark among the tourists who come to our lake country, and calling attention to the loyalty and devotion of the "Twincitians" who keep the project running so smoothly.

In closing, Miss Dilley commended the Samuel Huntington chapter for their zeal in helping in all of these movements, and extended special greetings to the chapter from the "Josiah Edson" chapter of Northfield, which, like the Samuel Huntington chapter, was organized by Mrs. Martha Ann Bronson of Merrifield, to whom the Northfield chapter sent a beautiful replica, in miniature, of the recently unveiled statue of the "Prairie Madonna."

"Mrs. Bronson has represented us of Northfield, as I am sure she has to you of Brainerd, the highest type of the pioneer women in whose honor this statue has been erected," said Miss Dilley, as Miss Nutting, a charter member of the "Josiah Edson" chapter, assisted her in removing the wrappings and laying this gracious gift in the hands of the woman who so ably presides over the Samuel Huntington chapter.

Following Miss Dilley's address, Miss Nutting added a few words of appreciation and greeting to Mrs. Bronson and the chapter—as did Mrs. Radcliffe and Mrs. Spalding, in behalf of the Aitkin chapter.

Mrs. Parker then introduced Rev. Mr. Ford, a missionary to the Philippines now vacationing at "Parkerville." Mr. Ford spoke briefly but most effectively on the Philippine struggle for independence and their reasons for wanting their freedom from our sovereignty. In answer to a question as to the fitness of the Philippines to govern themselves, he said: "perhaps not as fit as Minnesotans, (with a smile and a bow)—but certainly quite as fit as the majority of—Chicagoans, shall we say?" ## A Creed for 1931

H. I. PHILLIPS, writing in his column, "The Sun Dial," of the New York Sun late in May, wrote this creed for 1931 which carries a lot of good common sense in spite of the many odd twists which only Phillips can convey:

I believe in the United States of America.
I believe in the American ability to beat any beatable set of circumstances and come up smiling.

I believe in the ability of the American citizen to swim upstream, hit fast ball pitching, break out of a half-nelson and have a pretty good time in the bargain.

I believe that in the long run fair weather over-balances the bad, that all "breaks" are subject to the law of averages, that the expression "Good old days" is relative and that everything comes out all right in the wash.

I believe a little optimism never hurt anybody and can be taken straight.

I believe in the capacity of the American industrial leader and in the common sense of the American workman.

I believe that Uncle Sam is still at the old stand with a brave heart and a clear head and I do not believe he is in any danger of losing his pants, coat, vest or shirt.

I believe in the total inability of Russia to change the course of the stars, to rearrange the general appearance of the heavens, to eliminate the constellations, to discontinue the daily rising of the sun, to subject the rainbow to a five-year plan or to make the American of normal backbone jump into a hole and pull it in after him.

I believe American railroads are worth considerably more than a dime a dozen.

I believe the United States Steel Corporation, the American Telephone & Telegraph Company, the General Electric Corporation and other big industrial institutions will stay in business and that none of them is in any danger of having to take on a side line of lead pencils or apples.

I do not believe there is any danger of seeing John Pierpont Morgan, Owen D. Young, General Atterbury, Charlie Schwab or James A. Ferrell throwing their jobs overboard and deciding to make a living as ferryboat musicians.

I believe that what the country needs more than anything else is a restoration of the ducking stool for professional pessimists, squawkers, calamity howlers and confirmed grouches.

I believe in the ability, instinct, capacity and power of the average American to fight his way out of any difficulty, to scale any reasonable heights, to make the final payments on the automobile, to put something in the bank and to look adversity in the face and tell it to go to hell.

I believe the American people will continue to own and operate automobiles and that there is not a Chinaman's chance that conditions will arise which will make them decide it is a good idea to go back to the bicycle and the buggy.

I believe the American housewife will continue to have an electric icebox and will never again be satisfied to spend a half day mopping up the kitchen after the visit of the old-fashioned iceman.

I believe the old-fashioned washtub has gone for good and that anybody who thinks the American wife is going back to the old days of drudgery and inconveniences is two-thirds cuckoo and one-third army mule.

I believe three square meals a day will always be the American standard, but that even if we miss one or two it won't hurt us.

I believe in common sense and natural vision as opposed to the "fidgets" and the use of smoked glasses when anything goes wrong.

I believe in the silver lining, the rainbow after the storm, the plunge through center, the infallibility of the slogan "Never lead with your chin," and the potency of the cries, "Block that kick!" and "Hold 'em, Yale!"

I believe that much of the world depression is "done by mirrors."

I believe the worst is over and that it never was as bad as it was advertised.

Prowlers Should Be Punished

THE recent act of a prowler entering a cottage on Gull lake near the dam has aroused residents of the district. The section is in Cass county and both the authorities of Cass and Crow Wing county have been notified.

Crow Wing county has a standing reward of $100 for the arrest and conviction of any one found breaking into a cottage.

A cottage home should be made as secure as a home in town and any prowlers should be quickly apprehended and punished. Any householder should promptly notify authorities of the county in which he is located if his home is molested.

Important Meetings Frame Budgets

It is during the next 30 or 60 days that the school board, the city council and the county board, will all frame the budgets under which they are to operate during the coming year, says the Mankato Free Press.

If one-tenth as much interest and concern was shown about whether their 92 cents of the tax dollar was spent wisely and economically, as was shown last winter about where the state's 8 cents went, we might really get somewhere along the road toward efficient and economical government.

Pajamas

PAJAMAS enhance the beauty of any girl. Early comers in the lake region are wearing them at the lakes and when they visit town.

They are of various designs and in a wealth of color. That they are attractive is evidenced by the fact that the average man turns his head to get a better view of the girl.

A SPECIAL course in Parent-Teachers association work is to be held at the Northern Teachers college June 22 to 26. It is located at Aberdeen, S. D.

AFTER pricking his finger on the fin of a fish, a farmer near Clarissa died a week later from blood poisoning.

FINAL ACTION TO CLOSE UP CASE OF ALBERT B. FALL

2 PHYSICIANS TO DETERMINE IF
HE IS ABLE TO ENDURE
IMPRISONMENT

HAD BEEN SENTENCED TO YEAR
IN PRISON FOR ACCEPTING
BRIBE OF $100,000

By PAUL R. MALLON
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

Washington, June 16.—Final action to close the case of Albert B. Fall, former secretary of the interior, was undertaken by the government today.

District Attorney Leo Rover prepared to appoint two physicians to determine whether Fall is physically able to endure the year's imprisonment to which he was sentenced for accepting a bribe of $100,000 from E. L. Doheny in connection with leasing the Elks Hills naval oil reserve.

The former interior secretary now is at his ranch in New Mexico. Other physicians have reported that it would be dangerous to Fall even to attempt a trip to Washington. If the doctors to be named by the government concur in this finding, it is believed likely the District of Columbia supreme court will grant Fall a parole. It was in this court that Fall was tried and found guilty. The conviction was sustained by the United States supreme court.

There has been no formal indication of what will be done about the $100,000 fine which was part of Fall's sentence. His friends here say Fall's financial condition is strained. He could escape the fine by taking a pauper's oath.

Appointment of medical examiners

to determine Fall's exact physical condition was determined upon after a long conference between Rover, Atlee Pomerene and Frank J. Hogan, counsel for Fall.

"I think the whole matter should be cleared up within 10 days or two weeks," Pomerene said.
This was taken as an indication that Washington physicians might be sent to New Mexico to make the examination. Previous examinations have been made by El Paso, Texas, doctors.

"Do you know where his pilot goes in that plane?" persisted Dave.

won't be easy in my mind until I considered it as anything but a succession of fashionable resorts where the people he knew hesitated for a few weeks in January and February. It had never occurred to him that a few miles from the gaudy fringe of beaches, clubs and great hotels, creeping and crawling things slid through the swamps, hardy settlers fought the jungle for their subsistence. Seminole Indians still lived in aboriginal simplicity and silence reigned over everything.

He had been utterly bored with the sophisticated existence into which he had slipped since that day six years before when Mr. Cabot, the family attorney, had looked at him over nose-glasses and told him that David Ordway, Senior, had left him something more than four million dollars. The fortune, then, had seemed like a golden key to the pleasures of life, pleasures which his stern, hard-headed New England father had denied him lest he be softened and spoiled by ease and luxury.

Now, however, the money was something to be taken for granted, as were his three motor cars, his airplane and his beloved express cruiser, the Adventurer, now anchored in the river at Jacksonville. To the amazement of his father's conservative friends and business associates, who had heard rumors of Dave's high play at roulette at Monte Carlo and at bacarat in the casinos of Juan-les-Pins, Biarritz, Le Touquet and Palm Beach, he had not squandered his money in a riotous orgy. Instead, he had invested it with surprising skill and such had been the success of his investments that he had actually increased his principal in spite of the apparent carelessness with which he purchased whatever he desired. But there was no thrill, now, to riches. Rather a boredom in the knowledge that whatever he wanted was his by the mere signing of a check.

Here, however, was a potential adventure which offered a stimulating contrast to his everyday existence. He grinned to himself as he thought of the hot-house Barbara Holworthy set down amid such surroundings as these. True, Barbara was amazingly skillful at outdoor sports, but he could not imagine her in overalls, a coarse straw hat and snake boots. She swung a polo stick like a man, but Dave wondered what she would do if someone were to suddenly thrust a hoe into her perfectly manicured hands.

Interference

"You're altogether too good," he protested half-heartedly. "I simply haven't the conscience to stay after crashing in on you like this."

"Hannah has her orders," she said succinctly, helping herself to a glass of orangeade.

"Tell me, Miss Marbury," ventured Dave, "is this Mueller person really making things unpleasant for you?"

"He is," she admitted carelessly. "But if you don't mind, I'd rather not talk about him. I'm just dying to know about the new plays on Broadway and about the newest books and pictures and music."

"Fair enough," he shrugged. "I'll tell you what little I know about them when I come back from Mueller's. I might as well get that job of work over with."

A Creed for 1931

H. I. PHILLIPS, writing in his column, "The Sun Dial," of the New York Sun late in May, wrote this creed for 1931 which carries a lot of good common sense in spite of the many odd twists which only Phillips can convey:

I believe in the United States of America.

I believe in the American ability to beat any beatable set of circumstances and come up smiling.

I believe in the ability of the American citizen to swim upstream, hit fast ball pitching, break out of a half-nelson and have a pretty good time in the bargain.

I believe that in the long run fair weather over-balances the bad, that all "breaks" are subject to the law of averages, that the expression "Good old days" is relative and that everything comes out all right in the wash.

I believe a little optimism never hurt anybody and can be taken straight.

I believe in the capacity of the American industrial leader and in the common sense of the American workman.

I believe that Uncle Sam is still at the old stand with a brave heart and a clear head and I do not believe he is in any danger of losing his pants, coat, vest or shirt.

I believe in the total inability of Russia to change the course of the stars, to rearrange the general appearance of the heavens, to eliminate the constellations, to discontinue the daily rising of the sun, to subject the rainbow to a five-year plan or to make the American of normal backbone jump into a hole and pull it in after him.

I believe American railroads are worth considerably more than a dime a dozen.

I believe the United States Steel Corporation, the American Telephone & Telegraph Company, the General Electric Corporation and other big industrial institutions will stay in business and that none of them is in any danger of having to take on a side line of lead pencils or apples.

I do not believe there is any danger of seeing John Pierpont Morgan, Owen D. Young, General Atterbury, Charlie Schwab or James A. Ferrell throwing their jobs overboard and deciding to make a living as ferryboat musicians.

I believe that what the country needs more than anything else is a restoration of the ducking stool for professional pessimists, squawkers, calamity howlers and confirmed grouches.

I believe in the ability, instinct, capacity and power of the average American to fight his way out of any difficulty, to scale any reasonable heights, to make the final payments on the automobile, to put something in the bank and to look adversity in the face and tell it to go to hell.

I believe the American people will continue to own and operate automobiles and that there is not a Chinaman's chance that conditions will arise which will make them decide it is a good idea to go back to the bicycle and the buggy.

I believe the American housewife will continue to have an electric icebox and will never again be satisfied to spend a half day mopping up the kitchen after the visit of the old-fashioned iceman.

I believe the old-fashioned washtub has gone for good and that anybody who thinks the American wife is going back to the old days of drudgery and inconveniences is two-thirds cookoo and one-third army mule.

I believe three square meals a day will always be the American standard, but that even if we miss one or two it won't hurt us.

I believe in common sense and natural vision as opposed to the "fidgets" and the use of smoked glasses when anything goes wrong.

I believe in the silver lining, the rainbow after the storm, the plunge through center, the infallibility of the slogan "Never lead with your chin," and the potency of the cries, "Block that kick!" and "Hold 'em, Yale!"

I believe that much of the world depression is "done by mirrors."

I believe the worst is over and that it never was as bad as it was advertised.

Prowlers Should Be Punished

THE recent act of a prowler entering a cottage on Gull lake near the dam has aroused residents of the district. The section is in Cass county and both the authorities of Cass and Crow Wing county have been notified.

Crow Wing county has a standing reward of $100 for the arrest and conviction of any one found breaking into a cottage.

A cottage home should be made as secure as a home in town and any prowlers should be quickly apprehended and punished. Any householder should promptly notify authorities of the county in which he is located if his home is molested.

Important Meetings Frame Budgets

It is during the next 30 or 60 days that the school board, the city council and the county board, will all frame the budgets under which they are to operate during the coming year, says the Mankato Free Press.

If one-tenth as much interest and concern was shown about whether their 92 cents of the tax dollar was spent wisely and economically, as was shown last winter about where the state's 8 cents went, we might really get somewhere along the road toward efficient and economical government.

Pajamas

PAJAMAS enhance the beauty of any girl. Early comers in the lake region are wearing them at the lakes and when they visit town.

They are of various designs and in a wealth of color. That they are attractive is evidenced by the fact that the average man turns his head to get a better view of the girl.

A SPECIAL course in Parent-Teachers association work is to be held at the Northern Teachers college June 22 to 26. It is located at Aberdeen, S. D.

AFTER pricking his finger on the fin of a fish, a farmer near Clarissa died a week later from blood poisoning.

FISH are biting good in all the pike lakes.

FINAL ACTION TO CLOSE UP CASE OF ALBERT B. FALL

2 PHYSICIANS TO DETERMINE IF
HE IS ABLE TO ENDURE
IMPRISONMENT

HAD BEEN SENTENCED TO YEAR
IN PRISON FOR ACCEPTING
BRIBE OF $100,000

By PAUL R. MALLON
(United Press Staff Correspondent)
Washington, June 16.—Final action to close the case of Albert B. Fall, former secretary of the interior, was undertaken by the government today.

District Attorney Leo Rover prepared to appoint two physicians to determine whether Fall is physically able to endure the year's imprisonment to which he was sentenced for accepting a bribe of $100,000 from E. L. Doheny in connection with leasing the Elks Hills naval oil reserve.

The former interior secretary now is at his ranch in New Mexico. Other physicians have reported that it would be dangerous to Fall even to attempt a trip to Washington. If the doctors to be named by the government concur in this finding, it is believed likely the District of Columbia supreme court will grant Fall a parole. It was in this court that Fall was tried and found guilty. The conviction was sustained by the United States supreme court.

There has been no formal indication of what will be done about the $100,000 fine which was part of Fall's sentence. His friends here say Fall's financial condition is strained. He could escape the fine by taking a pauper's oath.

Appointment of medical examiners

to determine Fall's exact physical condition was determined upon after a long conference between Rover, Atlee Pomerene and Frank J. Hogan, counsel for Fall.

"I think the whole matter should be cleared up within 10 days or two weeks," Pomerene said.

This was taken as an indication that Washington physicians might be sent to New Mexico to make the examination. Previous examinations have been made by El Paso, Texas, doctors.

Dave Ordway, wealthy, young aviator, makes a forced landing in an orange grove in the hinterland of Florida. Looking for the owner to pay for the damage, Dave comes upon two beautiful girls in overalls. Joan Marbury, with the aid of her cousin, Sally, has been running the plantation since her father's death. Fearing the wrath of Mueller, owner of the adjoining groves, when he learns of the damage to his trees, the girls urge Dave to leave. He insists upon reimbursing Mueller, and when he learns Mueller has been molesting the girls, he is more anxious than ever to meet him. Just then Mueller's plane flies by.

CHAPTER III.

"I S this man Mueller's place on a river or a lake?" he asked as he rejoined Sally. "I didn't see any water from the air."

"There's no water anywhere near it," she said. "It's the same sort of country as this. Groves, scrubland and jungle where the rains collect in the Summer and Fall."

"Do you know where his pilot goes in that plane?" he persisted. She shook her head. Dave was silent for several seconds, his face very thoughtful.

"I wonder," he frowned, "why he has an amphibian, a plane that can land or take off from either water or the ground. When he bought that kind of a ship he intended to do a lot of flying over the water."

"There are thousands of lakes throughout the center of the State," said Sally, "and the Everglades aren't far to the south of us. But I don't know why he should want to land there."

"His pilot was certainly interested in the wreck of my 'Wasp,'" Dave mused. "He gave it a mighty careful examination from the air before he went on to friend Mueller's."

"Oh, I hope that man won't come over while you're here," said Sally, uneasily.

"He won't have to," Dave assured her. "I'm going over to interview him. If I get any more curious about that bird, I'll begin to itch all over."

Joan materialized out of the dimness of the house, cool and beautiful in her simple wash dress.

"I've told Hannah to put on an extra plate for dinner," she informed Dave unexpectedly. "After sundown you can walk down to the cross-roads grocery to telephone, if you wish. It's nearly three miles, much too far to go while the sun is up."

Interference

"You're altogether too good," he protested half-heartedly. "I simply haven't the conscience to stay after crashing in on you like this."

"Hannah has her orders," she said succinctly, helping herself to a glass of orangeade.

"Tell me, Miss Marbury," ventured Dave, "is this Mueller person really making things unpleasant for you?"

"He is," she admitted carelessly. "But if you don't mind, I'd rather not talk about him. I'm just dying to know about the new plays on Broadway and about the newest books and pictures and music."

"Fair enough," he shrugged. "I'll tell you what little I know about them when I come back from Mueller's. I might as well get that job of work over with. I won't be easy in my mind until I please, Mr. Ordway, be careful," exclaimed Sally, her black eyes very anxious. "Hannah tells us that he has a perfectly fiendish temper and is just too awful when he is mad."

"Do you know where his pilot goes in that plane?" persisted Dave.

He rose, smiling at her. His slow, easy grin betrayed no uneasiness about the forthcoming interview.

The Grapevine

"I'll try not to make him mad," he assured her. "But how does the good Hannah know all this?"

"The grapevine," she explained. "The niggers have a news system all their own."

"How do you get to Mueller's place?" he asked.

"It's about half a mile straight through the grove the way we came," said Joan, pointing.

Dave strode toward the porch steps. Then, turning thoughtfully—

"If that grapevine news system is so good," he suggested, "you might ask your cook to find out where that pilot goes in his plane. The amphibian business intrigues me."

And with that he was gone, whistling a torch song as he crossed the sandy lawn in the direction of the groves.

Dave Ordway, still whistling cheerfully, walked along the shady aisles between the orange, grapefruit and tangerine trees, conscious only of the rare beauty of the oblique shafts of sunlight as they filtered through the bright green foliage and concentrated their beams upon the richly colored fruit with which the trees were laden. The spicy odor of the citrus mingled with that of dank vegetation and strange, tropic flowers of the jungle and formed in its entirety a heady fragrance which blended harmoniously with his mood of the moment.

Only yesterday afternoon he had paced the after deck of Gerry Flemming's yacht. "Restless," bored with inactivity, fed up with bridge, tea and dancing, wishing that he were anywhere else in the world than just where he was. It had taken that final row with the tempestuous Barbara Holworthy to make him realize that he couldn't stand the crowd one more minute.

Today he was in a brand-new world, where anything might happen. Flitting from South Hampton to Antibes and from Biarritz to Palm Beach, he had forgotten that Florida was still a frontier State. He had never before considered it as anything but a succession of fashionable resorts where the people he knew hesitated for a few weeks in January and February. It had never occurred to him that a few miles from the gaudy fringe of beaches, clubs and great hotels, creeping and crawling things slid through the swamps, hardy settlers fought the jungle for their subsistence, Seminole Indians still lived in aboriginal simplicity and silence reigned over everything.

He had been utterly bored with the sophisticated existence into which he had slipped since that day six years before when Mr. Cabot, the family attorney, had looked at him over nose-glasses and told him that David Ordway, Senior, had left him something more than four million dollars. The fortune, then, had seemed like a golden key to the pleasures of life, pleasures which his stern, hard-headed New England father had denied him lest he be softened and spoiled by ease and luxury.

Taken For Granted

Now, however, the money was something to be taken for granted, as were his three motor cars, his airplane and his beloved express cruiser, the Adventurer, now anchored in the river at Jacksonville. To the amazement of his father's conservative friends and business associates, who had heard rumors of Dave's high play at roulette at Monte Carlo and at bacarat in the casinos of Juan-les-Pins, Biarritz, Le Touquet and Palm Beach, he had not squandered his money in a riotous orgy. Instead, he had invested it with surprising skill and such had been the success of his investments that he had actually increased his principal in spite of the apparent carelessness with which he purchased whatever he desired. But there was no thrill, now, to riches. Rather a boredom in the knowledge that whatever he wanted was his by the mere signing of a check.

Here, however, was a potential adventure which offered a stimulating contrast to his everyday existence. He grinned to himself as he thought of the hot-house Barbara Holworthy set down amid such surroundings as these. True, Barbara was amazingly skillful at outdoor sports, but he could not imagine her in overalls, a coarse straw hat and snake boots. She swung a polo stick like a man, but Dave wondered what she would do if someone were to suddenly thrust a hoe into her perfectly manicured hands.

FIVE-CORNERED TIE FOR THIRD PLACE, BOLSTAD IN THE GROUP

By HILLIER KRIEGBAUM
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

Minneapolis, Minn., June 16.—Dick Sawyer, Minneapolis, who shot par golf to carry on family traditions, led the field today as 200 golfers completed the second half of their qualifying round in the Trans-Mississippi tournament at Golden Valley.

Dick, who belongs to one of the first families of Minnesota golfers who have at one time, or another held practically all the state's titles, was one of the last to tee off yesterday. As he came up to the first tee one of the spectators told Dick his brother, Pat, only 18 but Minnesota amateur champion, had shot 44 on the first nine holes. That was seven over par.

"Guess I'll have to do something then," said Dick.

He shot a birdie on the first hole. He played par golf on both nines to lead the field. His brother was at the 18th green to meet Dick and offered his congratulations.

Pat, incidentally, rallied for the final nine holes. He turned in a card of 82 and still has a slight chance to qualify for the championship flight.

Two strokes behind Dick Sawyer were Johnny Goodman, Omaha, who won the 1927 Trans-Mississippi title with clubs he had borrowed to enter the tournament, and Ralph Harmon, 19-year-old school boy from Waterloo, Iowa.

There was a five-cornered tie for third place. L. B. Maytag, of Des Moines; Lester Bolstad, St. Paul; Rodney Bliss, Omaha; Bob Conliff, Oklahoma City, and Denman Miller, Des Moines, all had 76's.

Robert McCrary, Des Moines, who has held the Trans-Mississippi championship for the past two years, played safely to score 77. Art Tveraa, Minneapolis; Don Burris, Minneapolis; Blane Young, Omaha, also had 77's.

Unless strong winds play havoc with today's rounds, the 32 players in the championship flight have to shoot better than 160.

D. N. Tallman, Willmar, Minn., lead the aspirants for the senior flight qualification with an 83.

BREEZY POINT GAINS 1932 STATE TRAP SHOOT MEET

Getting the "Horse Laugh"

It's bad enough to be tossed from a horse in the awkward position in which C. Y. Tupper is shown above leaving his mount, but to have further insult added to injury in the form of a great, big "horse-laugh"—well, that's almost too much. If the horse Kinsale in this unusual action, shot at Port Chester, N. Y., is not enjoying one long drawn-out heehaw we're missing our guess, although Tupper probably thinks it's quite a perverted sense of humor. The incident occurred at the Westchester Horse Show.

ROGERS HORNSBY PLAYS NO FAVORITES AS CLUB MANAGER

Chicago, June 16.—U.P.—Rogers Hornsby plays no favorites in his job of managing the Chicago Cubs.

A few weeks ago he benched Hack Wilson, leading home run hitter of the major leagues last season, because the Hack was in a betting slump. It made no difference to Hornsby that Wilson was the second highest paid player in the National League.

"I would bench myself if I wasn't doing the team any good," said Hornsby at the time.

Hornsby proved he meant what he said when he took himself out of the Cubs' lineup yesterday in favor of Clarence Blair. The Cubs' manager had made only one hit in his last seven games, and his batting average had dwindled to .238.

"There's no use in my playing until I can shake off my batting slump," said Hornsby. "Every player on my club, including myself, has to deliver to stay in the lineup. I don't care about batting averages. I am only interested in winning ball games, and every player's job is to give his best efforts toward that result."

OILERS, ALL STARS TO MEET TOMORROW

Tomorrow the Thompson Oils and the All Stars will play a doubleheader in diamondball, the first game starting at 5:45 p. m.

The schedule is being speeded so as to finish the schedule by July 1. Four games can be played each week from then on.

BREEZY POINT ENTERTAINED
STATE SHOOTERS YEARS AGO;
WILL OUTDO RECORD IN '32

FORREST D. SAUNDERS ON MIN-NESOTA TEAM TO GRAND
AMERICAN HANDICAP

Captain William H. Fawcett, Breezy Point, today laid plans for the 1932 Minnesota State Trap Shoot. Captain Fawcett was elected president of the Twin City Shooting Association and the tournament was awarded his resort at Breezy Point.

The shooters will know the grand reception that awaits them in the Brainerd Lake Region, for some years ago Breezy Point had the honor to entertain the state shooters. The wonderful shooting grounds facing Big Pelican lake assuring the finest visibility, the expert trap boys, the special accommodations made available for all shooters, the publicity accorded and which gave the trap shooting game valued mention throughout the northwest and even in New York and other large metropolitan papers, all these coupled with the fine fellowship and hospitality of Captain and Mrs. Fawcett did much to assure the success of the state convention and will do so again in 1932. The Fawcetts make their plans for a convention as soon as secured and have all arrangements well in hand when the first target is broken.

Forrest D. Saunders, novice winner of the diamond badge event Sunday, assured himself a place on the Minnesota team to the Grand American handicap meet at Vandalia, Ohio, by winning the state amateur singles championship.

PENNEYS DEFEATED BY SCHUETY 9 TO 2

EYE HURLER ALLOWS ONE HIT,
FANS SIX; FOSTER GETS POOR SUPPORT

The Bye Clothiers split the dope bucket wide open last night at the N. P. diamond when they soundly trounced the league leading Penney kittenball team to the tune of 9 to 2.

Nathan Schuety pitched splendid ball for Bye's. He allowed but one hit, walked five and fanned six. Foster of Penney's also pitched a fine game allowing but five hits, five walks and had ve strikeouts to his credit, but his support was ragged at times, three errors by his team mates helping to bring about his downfall.

Eye's started out in the first, Olson walking; J. Heikkinen flied out. Both runners were safe when Laitala booted W. Heikkinen's grounder. Boyd doubled over third, scoring Olson and Heikkinen. Foster then tightened and fanned Nelson and Larson. The Bye's scored again in the third on a pass to Olson and J. Heikkinen who was safe when Foster threw wild to first. Boyd and Nelson ended the inning by fanning and grounding out. In the fifth Flaata singled over first, Schubert walked, Olson drew a pass, Heikkinen flied out, scoring Flaata, W. Heikkinen doubled to right scoring Olson and Schubert. Boyd was safe on a fielder's choice and Nelson tripled to center scoring Boyd. Larson and Storm flied out. They added one more in the ninth. Schuety hit to right, Flaata forced him at second. He went to third on a passed ball and scored when Olson flied out.

Schuety was in trouble in the first when he walked Aro. Laitala was safe on Nelson's error. Orth hit to short and Laitala was tagged out going to third. Schuety then bore down and fanned Swanson and Rafodil to end the inning. Pennies scored in the fifth on a walk to E. Foster and two infield outs. J. Heikkinen, Larson and Schubert played fine ball in the field for Byes while Joe Gabiou, Rafodil, and Swanson were the Penney mainstays. George Orth was the only Penney player to hit safely getting a line double through short.

Tennis Tills Tinkle

By HARDIN BURNLEY

Crimson and Blue Ready to Do Battle

Both confident of victory, but with Harvard slightly the favorite, the varsity eights of the Crimson and Yale are ready to renew their ancient rivalry on the Thames at New London, Conn., June 19. Harvard, victor over Yale but once in the last decade, is determined to avenge the long series of defeats and is going out to do or die. Yale, however, is just as anxious to maintain its winning streak and so—The Harvard varsity is shown above with Coach Whiteside and Captain Hallowell at left and right, respectively. Old Eli's boys are pictured below with Coach Leader at left and Captain Rogers at right. This year's race is expected to be hotly contested over the entire course.

TILDEN & CO., which is featuring "Big Bill," "Vinnie" Richards, Karel Kozeluh and "Frank" Hunter, will be playing Massachusetts soon en route over the long circuit and series of matches which should determine the professional tennis championship of the world. Of course, William Tatum already has shown that he is still The Tilden of the courts. On the current tour, he's already beaten Kozeluh and Richards so often that they are beginning to resemble a star boxer's sparring partners. Frequently they make "Bill" step to the limits to win, and many of the matches have thrilled; but, on the whole, Tilden has been complete master of the situation.

Many critics assert "Bill" is better than ever since becoming a "pro." Some of the games have revealed extraordinary skill and, wherever they play, Tilden & Co. is watched by large and lucrative crowds, especially so considering these times.

For a few years prior to Tilden's turning "pro," much discussion was heard as to whether he or Kozeluh was the world's greatest tennis player. They'd clashed in a few informal practice matches in those days with the Czechoslovak master having a slight advantage. So, it was figured last Winter when "Bill" listened to the lure of profit, that he and Kozeluh would furnish as close court combats as might be conceived. But Tilden shook that hope at the very start in Madison Square Garden and blasted it later with repeated victories over the foreign professor. Then Promoter Jack Curley—the chap who lifted wrestling to such a highly entertaining plane—arranged "a grudge duel" with Richards for The Tilden Tycoon. "Vinnie" had won what was called the world's pro title in 1930. But what "Big Bill" did to Richards reminded most folks of the days when both were amateurs. Gosh, how Promoter Curley must wish his tennis stars were wrestlers! Both are making money so far, but how Monsieur Jacques could dramatize those court tilts if the boys would only act! Alas—Tilden, when on the stage, was a Runyon or a Dan Parker; not a Barrymore or an Arliss!

SHOOTS PAR GOLF TO CARRY ON THE FAMILY NAME

2 STROKES BEHIND ARE JOHNNY GOODMAN OF OMAHA AND RALPH HARMON

FIVE-CORNERED TIE FOR THIRD PLACE, BOLSTAD IN THE GROUP

By HILLIER KRIEGHBAUM (United Press Staff Correspondent)

Minneapolis, Minn., June 16.—Dick Sawyer, Minneapolis, who shot par golf to carry on family traditions, led the field today as 200 golfers completed the second half of their qualifying round in the Trans-Mississippi tournament at Golden Valley.

Dick, who belongs to one of the first families of Minnesota golfers who have at one time, or another held practically all the state's titles, was one of the last to tee off yesterday. As he came up to the first tee one of the spectators told Dick his brother, Pat, only 18 but Minnesota amateur champion, had shot 44 on the first nine holes. That was seven over par.

"Guess I'll have to do something then," said Dick.

He shot a birdie on the first hole. He played par golf on both nines to lead the field. His brother was at the 18th green to meet Dick and offered his congratulations.

Pat, incidentally, rallied for the final nine holes. He turned in a card of 82 and still has a slight chance to qualify for the championship flight.

Two strokes behind Dick Sawyer were Johnny Goodman, Omaha, who won the 1927 Trans-Mississippi title with clubs he had borrowed to enter the tournament, and Ralph Harmon, 19-year-old school boy from Waterloo, Iowa.

There was a five-cornered tie for third place. L. B. Maytag, of Des Moines; Lester Bolstad, St. Paul; Rodney Bliss, Omaha; Bob Conliff, Oklahoma City, and Denman Miller, Des Moines, all had 76's.

Robert McCrery, Des Moines, who has held the Trans-Mississippi championship for the past two years, played safely to score 77. Art Tveraa, Minneapolis; Don Burris, Minneapolis; Blane Young, Omaha, also had 77's.

Unless strong winds play havoc with today's rounds, the 32 players in the championship flight have to shoot better than 160.

D. N. Tallman, Willmar, Minn., lead the aspirants for the senior flight qualification with an 83.

BREEZY POINT GAINS 1932 STATE TRAP SHOOT MEET

Getting the "Horse Laugh"

It's bad enough to be tossed from a horse in the awkward position in which C. Y. Tupper is shown above leaving his mount, but to have further insult added to injury in the form of a great "horse-laugh"—well, that's almost too much. If the horse kinsale in this unusual action, shot at Port Chester, N. Y., is not enjoying one long drawn-out hee-haw we're missing our guess, although Tupper probably thinks it's quite a perverted sense of humor. The incident occurred at the Westchester Horse Show.

ROGERS HORNSBY PLAYS NO FAVORITES AS CLUB MANAGER

Chicago, June 16.—(U.P.)—Rogers Hornsby plays no favorites in his job of managing the Chicago Cubs.

A few weeks ago he benched Hack Wilson, leading home run hitter of the major leagues last season, because the Hack was in a batting slump. It made no difference to Hornsby that Wilson was the second highest paid player in the National league.

"I would bench myself if I wasn't doing the team any good," said Hornsby at the time.

Hornsby proved he meant what he said when he took himself out of the Cubs' lineup yesterday in favor of Clarence Blair. The Cubs' manager had made only one hit in his last seven games, and his batting average had dwindled to .233.

"There's no use in my playing until I can shake off my batting slump," said Hornsby. "Every player on my club, including myself, has to deliver to stay in the lineup. I don't care about batting averages, I am only interested in winning ball games, and every player's job is to give his best efforts toward that result."

OILERS, ALL STARS TO MEET TOMORROW

Tomorrow the Thompson Oils and the All Stars will play a doubleheader in diamondball, the first game starting at 5:45 p. m.

The schedule is being speeded so as to finish the schedule by July 1. Four games can be played each week from then on.

CAPT. W. H. FAWCETT HEADS TWIN CITY SHOOTING ASS'N.

BREEZY POINT ENTERTAINED STATE SHOOTERS YEARS AGO; WILL OUTDO RECORD IN '32

FORREST D. SAUNDERS ON MINNESOTA TEAM TO GRAND AMERICAN HANDICAP

Captain William H. Fawcett, Breezy Point, today laid plans for the 1932 Minnesota State Trap Shoot. Captain Fawcett was elected president of the Twin City Shooting Association and the tournament was awarded his resort at Breezy Point.

The shooters will know the grand reception that awaits them in the Brainerd Lake Region, for some years ago Breezy Point had the honor to entertain the state shooters. The wonderful shooting grounds facing Big Pelican lake assuring the finest visibility, the expert trap boys, the special accommodations made available for all shooters, the publicity accorded and which gave the trap shooting game valued mention throughout the northwest and even in New York and other large metropolitan papers, all these coupled with the fine fellowship and hospitality of Captain and Mrs. Fawcett did much to assure the success of the state convention and will do so again in 1932. The Fawcetts make their plans for a convention as soon as secured and have all arrangements well in hand when the first target is broken.

Forrest D. Saunders, novice winner of the diamond badge over Sunday, assured himself a place on the Minnesota team to the Grand American handicap meet at Vandalia, Ohio, by winning the state amateur singles championship.

PENNEYS DEFEATED BY SCHUETY 9 TO 2

PYE HURLER ALLOWS ONE HIT, FANS SIX; FOSTER GETS POOR SUPPORT

The Bye Clothiers split the dope bucket wide open last night at the N. P. diamond when they soundly trounced the league leading Penney kittenball team to the tune of 9 to 2.

Nathan Schuety pitched splendid ball for Byes. He allowed but one hit, walked five and fanned six. Foster of Penney's also pitched a fine game allowing but five hits, five walks and had ve strikeouts to his credit, but his support was ragged at times, three errors by his team mates helping to bring about his downfall.

Byes started out in the first, Olson walking; J. Heikkinen flied out. Both runners were safe when Laitala booted W. Heikkinen's grounder. Boyd doubled over third, scoring Olson and Heikkinen. Foster then tightened and fanned Nelson and Larson. The Bye's scored again in the third on a pass to Olson and J. Heikkinen who was safe when Foster threw wild to first. Boyd and Nelson ended the inning by fanning and grounding out. In the fifth Flaata singled over first, Schubert walked, Olson drew a pass, Heikkinen flied out, scoring Flaata, W. Heikkinen doubled to right scoring Olson and Schubert. Boyd was safe on a fielder's choice and Nelson tripled to center, scoring Boyd, Larson and Storm flied out. They added one more in the ninth. Schuety hit to right, Flaata forced him at second. He went to third on a passed ball and scored when Olson flied out.

Schuety was in trouble in the first when he walked Aro. Laitala was safe on Nelson's error. Orth hit to short and Laitala was tagged out going to third. Schuety then bore down and fanned Swanson and Rafodil to end the inning. Penneys scored in the fifth on a walk to E. Foster and two infield outs. Foster again scored in the 7th on an error by Heikkinen and infield outs. J. Heikkinen, Larson and Schubert played fine ball in the field for Byes while Joe Gabiou, Rafodil and Swanson were the Penney mainstays. George Orth was the only Penney player to hit safely getting a line double through short.

FORMER PRES. COOLIDGE PAYS TRIBUTE TO HARDING

DECLARES HARDING HAD EXPERIENCE, ABILITY, COURAGE AND PATIENCE

COMBINED WITH A GENEROUS TOLERANCE AND CHEERFUL OPTIMISM

Marion, O., June 16.—(U.P.)—Warren G. Harding was pre-eminently fitted to serve the country in the disturbed and distraught period following the war, former President Calvin Coolidge, who succeeded him in office, said in an address today at the dedication of the Harding memorial.

Coolidge paid high tribute to Harding's character.

"He had experience and ability, courage and patience, combined with a generous tolerance and cheerful optimism that inspired confidence," the former president declared.

He sketched in outline the accomplishments of the Harding administration and concluded that "it would be difficult to find any peace time period of a little over two years when so much that was beneficial was accomplished as during his administration."

Coolidge praised Harding's "charming cordiality" and said that "his social graces were only an appropriate setting for a strong and rugged personality."

"To whatever position he was called," the former president said, "he demonstrated his power by work done."

"It often has been remarked that when a particular crisis in human affairs has required a certain type of ability to meet it, the right man has appeared. Whether this is because the times call the man or because there are latent powers in all of us which give those who become charged with responsibility the ability to respond by rising above themselves, it is impossible to decide."

"Perhaps it is enough to know that when the world has a work to do some one appears who is able to do it."

"President Harding... had a natural gift of expression which he had developed into an art. He understood the people and the people understood him. In composing a situation, in pacifying men, he was a master."

"Those qualities which were so much needed in our own country and in the world he brought to the presidential office. When he began his term, our domestic situation was chaotic."

In tracing the accomplishments of Harding in office, Coolidge called attention to the state of political affairs at the time of Harding's inauguration.

"Credit was over extended," he said. "Commodity prices had experienced a perpendicual decline. Unemployment was extensive. Agriculture was prostrate. The national debt was enormous. War taxes prevailed. Government expenses were heavy. All kinds of business were in distress. Our foreign relations were precarious."

To meet these problems, Coolidge said, President Harding summoned congress and kept it in session for nearly two years. He revived the war finance corporation to meet the credit situation. An emergency tariff law was enacted to protect our markets. Restricted immigration served to protect labor. A budget bureau was established and a system of "rigid economy" was adopted. The veterans bureau was organized. A permanent tariff bill gave protection to our markets in harmony with the new conditions of world trade.

"Surplus war materials," Coolidge said, "and treasury assets were converted into cash to pay expenses and reduce debts. Several billions of short term governmental obligations were paid or refunded. The shipping business and the railroad administration were put in the way of liquidation."

In foreign relations, "settlements of even greater magnitude were being made," the former president said. He cited settlement of the long standing difference with Colombia, the resumption of diplomatic relations with Mexico, the appointment of a commission to negotiate a settlement of foreign debts, and the calling of the Washington conference on limitation of armaments.

"Under this benign influence," Coolidge declared, "trade revived and a better international understanding prevailed. He would be the last to claim all the credit for these accomplishments. He had the loyal and patriotic co-operation of public men within and without his own party."

"He had the advantage, too, of the deeply interested and watchful care of a wife who was ever devoted to his welfare and shared with him his burdens. No record of his work would satisfy him which failed to recognize the helpful influence of Mrs. Harding, who sleeps here by his side."

"Before he could see the full fruition of his policies, fate brought him to a tragic end. As we can now realize the wisdom of the foundation which he laid, we are consoled by the thought that for some reason we cannot fathom his work was done, his course was finished, he was gathered to his fathers, to rest in the peace which he had desired so fervently to bestow upon all humanity."

Probe Her Story

Taking one of the chief roles in the mystery surrounding the strange death of Starr Faithfull, pretty New York "Flame Girl," is her 19-year-old sister, Elizabeth, also known as Tucker and Sylvia. In appearing before the Nassau County Grand Jury probing what is believed to be the murder of the madcap girl who experienced "every sensation" in life before her untimely death, the attractive younger sister tried to straighten out conflicting accounts of her own movements after Starr disappeared.

FAITHFULL FAMILY BELIEVE STARR WAS MURDERED

at least contribute to the work of restoring her mind to a normal state.

Negotiations were had between Faithfull's lawyer and representatives of the man in question. At one stage there were suggestions that Faithfull's demands were exorbitant and that any excess beyond a given figure would be in the class of extortion.

The Faithfulls disclaimed then, and now, any extortion ever was dreamed of or practiced.

The man in question, according to a document in the possession of the Faithfulls eventually paid $20,000 and obtained a release of all claims by the Faithfulls.

Since that time there has been no demand for more money, and no communication between the Faithfulls and the man whom they assert despoiled the pretty Starr, warped her mind, and made of her a Jekyll-Hyde person.

It developed from the Faithfulls today that about a month ago, an attorney friend of Faithfull's inquired if any of the family had been talking about the tragedy of Starr's youth.

They gave positive assurances that outside of the small circle who knew of it originally—all discreet—nobody knew the story.

But the Faithfulls admitted the possibility that Starr may have talked. With drink she was a different girl from the charming and fastidious girl they knew at home. And, they confessed, it was possible someone had won her confidence and had misused the information.

The Faithfulls have given the authorities information on the incidents above related. They have also communicated to them facts of the girl's last days on earth as gathered from Starr's conversations.

"Many fantastic and grotesque things have been written," Mrs. Faithfull commented today, concerning reports that Starr knew an inordinate number of men. "She had been in the house with Mr. Faithfull and myself every evening from about 6 P. M. since we landed in this country the first week of December."

"I have been with her every single evening. Stories of 'wild night life' are without a shred of foundation. She knew only a few men, and these men were of good standing."

Stars in Hollywood Sky That Shine in Daytime

Many notable stars of shadowland have answered the call of aviation and learned to fly. Some do it for Sport, others for Business

BEN LYON and BEBE DANIELS BILLIE DOVE

Stars of the first magnitude on the screen, there is a little circle in Hollywood the members of which have taken up aviation in a serious way and are now invading the realm of the heavenly bodies whence they derive their titles. There is Ben Lyon and his charming wife, Bebe Daniels, who may be regarded as veterans at the "stick." Bebe is an honorary colonel in a squadron of the California National Guard's Air Corps. Wallace Beery, who delights and shocks film fans upon occasion, is not only a licensed pilot but also a heavy stockholder in one of the large air-transport lines. He is said to operate a private line of his own in California. Last, but by no means least, is Billie Dove, who has been secretly taking flying lessons and, having already bought a plane, is about to take her test for a pilot's license.

HOLLYWOOD, June 16.—This highly temperamental, excitable community, filled with bursting with souls fairly sky-rocketing and nose-diving into public print in order to get their names emblazoned across the sky of public opinion, is too often prone to "go up in the air" over inconsequential of no importance or interest to the rest of the world.

But among these ground-anchored mortals is a quartet which does go up in the air most realistically, sanely and under power which they can control to bring them back to their feet again without reams of publicity. They don't have to "hit the ceiling" to get into the newspapers, but, for a fact, their exploits in the air are not half as well known as those who take mental altitude flights and disastrous power dives.

Three of this interesting aerial quartet of flying film folk are old-timers at the controls, while the fourth, pretty Billie Dove, has been secretly taking lessons at piloting a plane, and has applied for a license from the Department of Commerce. Billie, formerly "glorified" by Ziegfeld in his Follies, is now having a glorious time flitting about the skies above Hollywood and quite literally looking down upon her less adventurous friends of the films.

Billie already has made one solo flight and has bought a trim monoplane which will be ready for her in about a month.

But the champion flying duo of Hollywood, is composed of tall, handsome Ben Lyon and his beautiful, vivacious wife, Bebe Daniels. They can rightfully be styled old-timers at the stick as both have been flying for several years. Bebe was honored near the inauguration of her aerial career by being made an honorary colonel in a squadron of the California National Guard's air corps. The peppy star of the movies was issued a uniform with wings 'n' everything and oh, how proud she was.

When Ben Lyon was starred in "Hell's Angels" and took the part of an ace with the British Royal Air Force he felt right at home. He was too young during the World War to participate in it as a flier, but you'd never have known it with the performance he rendered in the film version of a spectacular side of the Great War.

Bebe and Ben do not let the mere fact that their favorite golf links is 150 miles from Hollywood interfere with their enjoyment of the game. Whenever the idea seizes them, and it's quite often, they hop into their plane and ride the air lanes down to Agua Caliente, Mexico, for a round of the links, climb back into their aerial chariot and away to home in time for dinner.

The last, but not the least deserving of praise of the quartet of Hollywood aces of the sky is Wallace Beery, well-known comedian of the flickering films. He, like Bebe and Ben, holds a pilot's license from the Federal Department of Commerce. Wally not only flies his own plane, but he's a heavy stockholder in one of the large trans-continental air transport lines and is said to operate a private line of his own in California.

Fortune has smiled on Hollywood's sky-pilots thus far, none of them having suffered from crashes. If one of them should encounter a mishap, and news of the accident was published, no doubt many persons would be amazed to learn that at least four of their favorites are pilots—and mighty good ones, too.

Stardom has come to every one of this aerial quartet. Surely all of us will wish them "Happy Landings" as well.

be able to escape all of the 5,000 counts against him.

"Chicago's crime situation already is improving now that Capone is out of the way. Capone rule is ended definitely. Public sentiment is awakened and a character like Capone will not be tolerated."

The Woman of the Shoe and Her New House

(As Told in Pictures.)

The old woman with all her children who wouldn't fit into the old shoe gathered them together and decided they must have a new house. So she went to the king's palace. The gatekeeper unlocked the gates and let the old woman with her children pass through. The doorkeeper haughtily opened the great door. The guard at the throne room drew back the velvet curtains and the king received them upon his golden throne.

The king could do nothing without the beaver. The old woman and her children went to see the beaver at his request and told him the king wished him to cut down a tree to provide them with lumber. The beaver was glad to help and the carpenter sawed the tree into boards as soon as it was down. The children danced out upon the lawn and no longer did they have to live in a shoe. They lived in a very grand new house with room enough for all.

1. FANCY ENVELOPES. Many letters and holiday cards now come in beautiful envelopes. With these you can make pretty designs, scrapbooks and doll's dresses. On the plain side of the envelope draw or trace a bird, a star, or a flower and cut out the design. Paste this in a blank book. A scrapbook made of these bright designs would be nice to give to a friend, or several books could be sent to children in the hospitals. You can also draw the initials of your name in double lines and cut them out to decorate book-lets or boxes. These fancy envelopes will also make dresses for your paper dolls.

2. A PAGE-A-DAY DIARY. Cut seven pieces of white or colored paper about five inches square or even larger. Every day find one pretty picture or a poem to paste on one-half of one page. Under this write the happiest event of the day. Make holes in the tops of these pages and run a ribbon through but leave plenty of room before you tie it in a bow, for you will add a page each day to the ribbon. When the seven pages are filled, cut out another seven and keep on making your diary in this way.

3. THE GAME OF HEADS. Cut figures of men, women, and children out of newspapers and magazines, choosing the largest ones. Then cut off their heads. Next find all kinds of heads in the magazines and papers, heads of babies, animals, brownies or grown people, and cut out as many heads as you have figures. Place your figures in a row on the table. Mix the heads all together and put them in a pile. Then shut your eyes and pick up one head. Place this on top of a figure. Continue in the same way until every figure has a different head. What funny people!

FORMER PRES. COOLIDGE PAYS TRIBUTE TO HARDING

DECLARES HARDING HAD EXPERIENCE, ABILITY, COURAGE AND PATIENCE

COMBINED WITH A GENEROUS TOLERANCE AND CHEERFUL OPTIMISM

Marion, O., June 16.—(UP)—Warren G. Harding was pre-eminently fitted to serve the country in the disturbed and distraught period following the war, former President Calvin Coolidge, who succeeded him in office, said in an address today at the dedication of the Harding memorial.

Coolidge paid high tribute to Harding's character.

"He had experience and ability, courage and patience, combined with a generous tolerance and cheerful optimism that inspired confidence," the former president declared.

He sketched in outline the accomplishments of the Harding administration and concluded that "it would be difficult to find any peace time period of a little over two years when so much that was beneficial was accomplished as during his administration."

Coolidge praised Harding's "charming cordiality" and said that "his social graces were only an appropriate setting for a strong and rugged personality."

"To whatever position he was called," the former president said, "he demonstrated his power by work done."

"It often has been remarked that when a particular crisis in human affairs has required a certain type of ability to meet it, the right man has appeared. Whether this is because the times call the man or because there are latent powers in all of us which give those who become charged with responsibility the ability to respond by rising above themselves, it is impossible to decide."

"Perhaps it is enough to know that when the world has a work to do some one appears who is able to do it."

"President Harding . . . had a natural gift of expression which he had developed into an art. He understood the people and the people understood him. In composing a situation, in pacifying men, he was a master."

"Those qualities which were so much needed in our own country and in the world he brought to the presidential office. When he began his term, our domestic situation was chaotic."

In tracing the accomplishments of Harding in office, Coolidge called attention to the state of political affairs at the time of Harding's inauguration.

"Credit was over extended," he said. "Commodity prices had experienced a perpendicular decline. Unemployment was extensive. Agriculture was prostrate. The national debt was enormous. War taxes prevailed. Government expenses were heavy. All kinds of business were in distress. Our foreign relations were precarious."

To meet these problems, Coolidge said, President Harding summoned congress and kept it in session for nearly two years. He revived the war finance corporation to meet the credit situation. An emergency tariff law was enacted to protect our markets. Restricted immigration served to protect labor. A budget bureau was established and a system of "rigid economy" was adopted. The veterans bureau was organized. A permanent tariff bill gave protection to our markets in harmony with the new conditions of world trade.

"Surplus war materials," Coolidge said, "and treasury assets were converted into cash to pay expenses and reduce debts. Several billions of short term governmental obligations were paid or refunded. The shipping business and the railroad administration were put in the way of liquidation."

In foreign relations, "settlements of even greater magnitude were being made," the former president said. He cited settlement of the long standing difference with Colombia, the resumption of diplomatic relations with Mexico, the appointment of a commission to negotiate a settlement of foreign debts, and the calling of the Washington conference on limitation of armaments.

"Under this benign influence," Coolidge declared, "trade revived and a better international understanding prevailed. He would be the last to claim all the credit for these accomplishments. He had the loyal and patriotic co-operation of public men within and without his own party."

"He had the advantage, too, of the deeply interested and watchful care of a wife who was ever devoted to his welfare and shared with him his burdens. No record of his work would satisfy him which failed to recognize the helpful influence of Mrs. Harding, who sleeps here by his side."

"Before he could see the full fruition of his policies, fate brought him to a tragic end. As we can now realize the wisdom of the foundation which he laid, we are consoled by the thought that for some reason we cannot fathom his work was done, his course was finished, he was gathered to his fathers, to rest in the peace which he had desired so fervently to bestow upon all humanity."

Probe Her Story

Taking one of the chief roles in the mystery surrounding the strange death of Starr Faithfull, pretty New York "Flame Girl," is her 19-year-old sister, Elizabeth, also known as Tucker and Sylvia. In appearing before the Nassau County Grand Jury probing what is believed to be the murder of the madcap girl who experienced "every sensation" in life before her untimely death, the attractive younger sister tried to straighten out conflicting accounts of her own movements after Starr disappeared.

at least contribute to the work of restoring her mind to a normal state.

Negotiations were had between Faithfull, his lawyer and representatives of the man in question. At one stage there were suggestions that Faithfull's demands were exorbitant and that any excess beyond a given figure would be in the class of extortion.

The Faithfulls disclaimed then, and now, any extortion ever was dreamed of or practiced.

The man in question, according to a document in the possession of the Faithfulls eventually paid $20,000 and obtained a release of all claims by the Faithfulls.

Since that time there has been no demand for more money, and no communication between the Faithfulls and the man whom they assert despoiled the pretty Starr, warped her mind, and made of her a Jekyll-Hyde person.

It developed from the Faithfulls today that about a month ago, an attorney friend of Faithfull's inquired if any of the family had been talking about the tragedy of Starr's youth. They gave positive assurances that outside of the small circle who knew of it originally—all discreet—nobody knew the story.

But the Faithfulls admitted the possibility that Starr may have talked. With drink she was a different girl from the charming and fastidious girl they knew at home. And, they confessed, it was possible someone had won her confidence and had misused the information.

The Faithfulls have given the authorities information on the incidents above related. They have also communicated to them facts of the girl's last days on earth as gathered from Starr's conversations.

"Many fantastic and grotesque things have been written," Mrs. Faithfull commented today, concerning reports that Starr knew an inordinate number of men. "She had been in the house with Mr. Faithfull and myself every evening from about 6 P. M. since we landed in this country the first week of December."

"I have been with her every single evening. Stories of 'wild night life' are without a shred of foundation. She knew only a few men, and these men were of good standing."

Stars in Hollywood Sky That Shine in Daytime

Many notable stars of shadowland have answered the call of aviation and learned to fly. Some do it for Sport, others for Business

BEN LYON and BEBE DANIELS

BILLIE DOVE

Stars of the first magnitude on the screen, there is a little circle in Hollywood the members of which have taken up aviation in a serious way and are now invading the realm of the heavenly bodies whence they derive their titles. There is Ben Lyon and his charming wife, Bebe Daniels, who may be regarded as veterans at the "stick." Bebe is an honorary colonel in a squadron of the California National Guard's Air Corps. Wallace Beery, who delights and shocks film fans upon occasion, is not only a licensed pilot but also a heavy stockholder in one of the large air transport lines. He is said to operate a private line of his own in California. Last, but by no means least, is Billie Dove, who has been secretly taking flying lessons and, having already bought a plane, is about to take her test for a pilot's license.

HOLLYWOOD, June 16.—This highly temperamental, excitable community, filled to bursting with souls fairly sky-rocketing and nose-diving into public print in order to get their names emblazoned across the sky of public opinion, is too often prone to "go up in the air" over inconsequential of no importance or interest to the rest of the world.

But among these ground-anchored mortals is a quartet which does go up in the air most realistically, sanely and under power which they can control to bring them back to their feet again without reams of publicity. They don't have to "hit the ceiling" to get into the newspapers, but, for a fact, their exploits in the air are not half as well known as those who take mental altitude flights and disasterous power dives.

Three of this interesting aerial quartet of flying film folk are old-timers at the controls, while the fourth, pretty Billie Dove, has been secretly taking lessons at piloting a plane, and has applied for a license from the Department of Commerce. Billie, formerly "glorified" by Ziegfeld in his Follies, is now having a glorious time flitting about the skies above Hollywood and quite literally looking down upon her less adventurous friends of the films.

Billie already has made one solo flight and has bought a trim monoplane which will be ready for her in about a month.

But the champion flying duo of Hollywood, is composed of tall, handsome Ben Lyon and his beautiful, vivacious wife, Bebe Daniels. They can rightfully be styled old-timers at the stick as both have been flying for several years. Bebe was honored near the inauguration of her aerial career by being made an honorary colonel in a squadron of the California National Guard's air corps. The peppy star of the movies was issued a uniform with wings 'n' everything and oh, how proud she was.

When Ben Lyon was starred in "Hell's Angels" and took the part of an ace with the British Royal Air Force he felt right at home. He was too young during the World War to participate in it as a flier, but you'd never have known it with the performance he rendered in the film version of a spectacular side of the Great War.

Bebe and Ben do not let the mere fact that their favorite golf links is 150 miles from Hollywood interfere with their enjoyment of the game. Whenever the idea seizes them, and it's quite often, they hop into their plane and ride the air lanes down to Agua Caliente, Mexico, for a round of the links, climb back into their aerial chariot and away to home in time for dinner.

The last, but not the least deserving of praise of the quartet of Hollywood aces of the sky is Wallace Beery, well-known comedian of the flickering films. He, like Bebe and Ben, holds a pilot's license from the Federal Department of Commerce. Wally not only flies his own plane, but he's a heavy stockholder in one of the large trans-continental air transport lines and is said to operate a private line of his own in California.

Fortune has smiled on Hollywood's sky-pilots thus far, none of them having suffered from crashes. If one of them should encounter a mishap, and news of the accident was published, no doubt many persons would be amazed to learn that at least four of their favorites are pilots—and mighty good ones, too.

Stardom has come to every one of this aerial quartet. Surely all of us will wish them "Happy Landings" as well.

Hailed in Opera

Grace Fisher (above), of Buffalo, N. Y., received unstinted praise from critics of the opera and newspapers when she made her brilliant debut as Nedda in Pagliacci at Milan, Italy. The American girl's acting was described as vibrant and interpretive as her remarkable voice. A highly successful career has been predicted for Miss Fisher by experts.

The old woman with all her children who wouldn't fit into the old shoe gathered them together and decided they must have a new house. So she went to the king's palace. The gatekeeper unlocked the gates and let the old woman with her children pass through. The doorkeeper haughtily opened the great door. The guard at the throne room drew back the velvet curtains and the king received them upon his golden throne.

The king could do nothing without the beaver. The old woman and her children went to see the beaver at his request and told him the king wished him to cut down a tree to provide them with lumber. The beaver was glad to help and the carpenter sawed the tree into boards as soon as it was down. The children danced out upon the lawn and no longer did they have to live in a shoe. They lived in a very grand new house with room enough for all.

1. FANCY ENVELOPES. Many letters and holiday cards now come in beautiful envelopes. With these you can make pretty designs, scrapbooks and doll's dresses. On the plain side of the envelope draw or trace a bird, a star, or a flower and cut out the design. Paste this in a blank book. A scrapbook made of these bright designs would be nice to give to a friend, or several books could be sent to children in the hospitals. You can also draw the initials of your name in double lines and cut them out to decorate booklets or boxes. These fancy envelopes will also make dresses for your paper dolls.

2. A PAGE-A-DAY DIARY. Cut seven pieces of white or colored paper about five inches square or even larger. Every day find one pretty picture or a poem to paste on one-half of one page. Under this write the happiest event of the day. Make holes in the tops of these pages and run a ribbon through but leave plenty of room before you tie it in a bow, for you will add a page each day to the ribbon. When the seven pages are filled, cut out another seven and keep on making your diary in this way.

3. THE GAME OF HEADS. Cut figures of men, women, and children out of newspapers and magazines, choosing the largest ones. Then cut off their heads. Next find all kinds of heads in the magazines and papers, heads of babies, animals, brownies or grown people, and cut out as many heads as you have figures. Place your figures in a row on the table. Mix the heads all together and put them in a pile. Then shut your eyes and pick up one head. Place this on top of a figure. Continue in the same way until every figure has a different head. What funny people!

ATTORNEY GENERAL TO RULE ON STATE GRADE

Council Wants to Know What Responsibilities City Assumes for Highway No. 2 Grade

NEW PAVING CONSIDERED

Engineer to Make Estimate of Cost in Paving Downtown Alleys; May Pave Cemetery Hill

Considerable thought was given by the city council last evening to a former resolution accepting the responsibility in the establishment of the grade for Trunk Highway No. 2 through the city as voted the Minnesota Highway Department.

To protect the city, the aldermen on motion of George E. Erickson and Wm. Coyne requested City Attorney W. J. Swanson to secure a ruling from the attorney general's office on the protective clause as to the city's responsibility.

Further discussion on the resolution which City Engineer R. T. Campbell contended was a state procedure when the Minnesota Highway Department builds through a city was brought to the front immediately at the commencement of the meeting by V. E. Quastrom, council president.

The council head asked the question, why it was that the city should assume such a responsibility.

"I think the resolution should be killed here right now and a new one adopted," he said and asked for the legal advice of the city attorney on the matter.

Mr. Swanson told the members that if it was their wish that he look into the matter further he would be glad to do so but he was under the impression that the council was favorable to it at the former meeting.

Vernor F. Anderson said he believed it to be true that the state would not desire to enter a city unless the city would accept the responsibility of the grade.

"I can't remember that the council passed such a resolution for other highways in the city," President Quastrom voiced.

Alderman Erickson was of the belief that there would be little change from the city grade.

Speaking further on the subject, Mr. Quastrom said that as the route of the highway exists dangerous crossings must be passed over by traffic to get to the highway.

"Of course the highway department goes anywhere they want to. Personally I don't care if the highway doesn't hit Brainerd at all," he said.

City Engineer Campbell said that as far as the city assuming the responsibility is concerned it is no greater than if the city was doing the work itself. The grades on Main street are established.

"As far as liability to the city is concerned I can see but one resident, a property owner on Richard street in West Brainerd, that might have a complaint. In the case of a court action it is doubtful if he could collect," Mr. Campbell said.

The city engineer went further to state that if any liability was incurred at this property it would be slight, possibly about $300 and that such a small expense would be compensated by three miles of new paving to the city of Brainerd and a new concrete bridge over the Mississippi river at a cost not less than $250,000.

"You understand that when the city assumes the responsibility of the grade it is only property damage and no other liability. In talking the matter over with Mr. Harbitt of the highway department and Mr. Swanson (city attorney) it was suggested that the man in West Brainerd be interviewed and an agreement reached," he said.

Mr. Campbell was further of the opinion that even the lowering of the grade would not damage the man's property.

Alderman Chris Elvig said the resolution was similar to those passed by other cities where the highway department operates.

"If you desire me to I can look into the matter and find out if other cities have similar arrangements," City Attorney Swanson suggested.

"I am sure that the attorney general's department will heartily cooperate," Mr. Campbell said.

The discussion closed with the matter referred to the city attorney.

Signs Protection Asked

County Highway Engineer Walter M. Murphy appeared before the council as a representative of the Lions club of Brainerd to ask protection of signs purchased by the club to direct tourists to points of interest outside the city.

"These signs have been replaced in some instances four times. They have been defaced and damaged," he said.

Quastrom—"I have asked several times why have we a police department and let such things exist."

Elvig—"We are handicapped by lack of policemen."

Quastrom—"Sure we are when the cops stand on the street corners. If the cops would hit the ball they would get somewhere."

On motion of Aldermen Anderson and Erickson the request for protection was referred to the police committee to petition the Civil Service Commission for relief.

Band Promise Made

Archie R. Falconer, appearing in behalf of the Crow Wing County Farm Bureau requested the council to give the Brainerd Municipal Band permission to play at the Bureau picnic at Lum Park, Saturday, June 27.

Mr. Falconer said the village of Crosby had consented to permit the boys band of Crosby to play and since funds of the Bureau were limited it would be appreciated if the city band would play. He said that merchants were cooperating in donations to make the picnic a huge success. He mentioned also the fact that Governor Floyd B. Olson would be a speaker and that the picnic would attract a large number to Brainerd.

Mr. Quastrom suggested that since the council has the right of designating three dates on which the band will play outside the regular seasonal programs each Wednesday evening, this occasion would warrant it.

The request was granted on motion of Aldermen Coyne and Anderson.

Grant Gas Station Licenses

Licenses to operate two gasoline filling stations on applications were granted.

These affected John Anderson who informed the council that he planned to remove the building known as the "Last Turn Saloon" and erect a two pump gas station there, and the application of J. C. Thompson to construct a filling station at 1020 Main street for two pumps.

May Establish Grade

Following the request of E. W. Paine and W. A. Eastling for curbing from the east side of Ninth street to the east end of Lot 24, Block 160, and Lot 13, Block 142, both lots on Holly street east of Ninth, the council instructed the city engineer and street committee to enter the proposition with the view of establishing a grade and to then complete the work, the two property owners to meet the expense.

Asks Alley Relief

In a letter from A. M. Opsahl, attention was directed to the alley entering on Seventh street between Laurel and Front streets in Block 43 where water stands on the cross walk after rains and causes an unsightly condition in the alley.

City Engineer Campbell suggested that a grade be fixed in the alley.

Alderman Frank B. Johnson suggested that since there is considerable agitation for the paving of alleys in downtown Brainerd, the engineer be instructed to fix a grade at the alley requested. His motion to this effect was seconded by Alderman Erickson.

Consider Alley Paving

Later in the meeting the council considered further improvements of downtown Brainerd alleys and on motion of Aldermen W. H. Hall and Johnson moved that the city engineer secure an estimate of cost of paving the alleys so considered.

Alderman Hall said that Con O'Brien had planned to attend the meeting and voice such an expression but that illness prevented him.

Approve Retirement Clause

Approval of a retirement resolution for city employees who desire to become members of the Public Employees Retirement Association was given.

Letters giving information on the retirement status were read by Mrs. E. T. Fleener, city clerk, who said that she for one was interested.

"I am sure that city employees will be interested. It is not compulsory for anyone to become a member. If desired, membership and eligibility for retirement may be taken out by the employee, deductions of 3 1/2 per cent of salary being made towards the retirement fund. She said that the retirement age had been set at 65 years.

On motion of Aldermen Anderson and Hall a resolution was adopted permitting city employees to join the association if they desire.

The pension plan also includes officers of the school district.

Grant Removal Rights

Fire Chief Frank W. Fuller reported that the building complained of to the rear of the Northeast Brainerd Community building would be removed and a garage purchased from Block S2 would be moved there.

The report brought to mind the request of parties purchasing buildings on Block S2 and the council granted the removal of all buildings from the block with the understanding that any damage to street property be met. It was passed on motion of Anderson and Elvig.

City Engineer Campbell reported that grading on Vine street from Sixth to Fourth and on Park from Vine to the south end of Park street would require about 2,000 cubic yards of earth to cover the 1200 linear feet of street. He estimated the cost at approximately $2300. The city's share for the grading of intersections would be between $300 and $400 he estimated.

On motion of Elvig and Anderson the council instructed the city clerk to advertise for bids returnable on July 13.

The city attorney reported that a family from Cass county had moved in Crow Wing county and that he was asking their removal before they became county charges.

Finance Chairman Anderson reported that the treasurer had made a drawing but that the city would get a settlement some time this month. Generally the finances of the city were in good shape, he said.

Pay for Police Equipment

Alderman Johnson, chairman of the police committee, reported that the Chief of Police had requested the council to meet the cost of the Sam Brown belts purchased and to make an appropriation for new stars and badges. The same was granted on motion of Johnson and Hall, the cost not to exceed $40.

The motion brought on a general discussion of Sam Brown belts, badges and policemen in general.

Alderman J. M. Frederick said the belts now worn by Brainerd policemen were not popular in other sections of the country.

Hall disagreed saying that this type of belt was worn a great deal in the east.

Johnson said that the Sam Brown belt was the standard belt of officers in the U. S. Army and that they gave the policemen a more metropolitan aspect.

"Our policemen must be up to snuff," he said.

"They make our cops look like somebody," was Elvig's opinion.

Ask Bus Depot

Alderman Johnson reported that he had received complaints from motorists and merchants concerning the parking of busses on Eighth street near the corner of Laurel street.

"Motorists have been tagged for parking there when busses are not on the street and the merchants are complaining that failure to find a parking place for their customers is hurting trade," he said.

Alderman Coyne said he failed to understand why the busses were allowed to park there.

"The bus company does not benefit the town. The busses don't get gas here and they take money out of town. I am in favor of the company building its own bus depot and not park their busses on the street," he said.

On motion of Erickson and Coyne the city clerk was instructed to write the Northland Greyhound Bus Co. telling the company to find a suitable place for a bus depot within 60 days.

Frederick requested that police be instructed to enforce the traffic regulation requiring motorists to make an outside turn at intersections other than Sixth and Laurel where an inside left turn is required.

Quastrom was of the opinion that there should be inside left turns on all intersections downtown.

Anderson said the cost of erecting signs would be too great to warrant the change.

City Engineer Campbell said he would secure prices on signs for the information of the council.

Frederick presented another complaint.

"We should do something about the parking of trailers and big trucks on the streets downtown. They become dangerous to traffic. The police department should be instructed to check up on them and not to permit any lengthy parking," he said.

Alderman Johnson said he would bring the matter to the attention of the police.

Cemetery Hill Improvement

Hall appealed for relief at Cemetery Hill and Terrace avenue.

"We are spending considerable money for its upkeep. Every time it rains, the road washes out. Let us get in touch with the Cemetery Association and ask for financial assistance in paving."

The suggestion was accepted and on motion of Hall and Coyne a committee consisting of the city attorney, city engineer, chairman of the finance committee and the chairman of the street committee was instructed to appeal to the Cemetery Association concerning plans for paving and to report at the next meeting.

Dogs Again Complained Of

The council was still discussing streets.

"Now Mr. Chairman, do dogs come under the heading of streets or do streets come under the heading of dogs. Anyhow I have a complaint to offer," Hall said.

The second ward alderman said that dogs were harming gardens and shrubbery and in some cases there was no way of learning the ownership of the dog as it was without a license.

"I would like to know if dogs can be forced to wear tags," he asked.

The city attorney said it was not compulsory under the ordinance for a dog to wear a license as long as the owner has taken one out.

Johnson—"I am sure that any self respecting, well dressed dog will not appear on the streets of Brainerd without a tag."

Coyne—"If the dogs stayed on the streets it would be all right but it is when they leave the streets that they do the damage."

Repairs to be Made

Coyne reported the sidewalk on Sixth street between Vine and Tamarack in need of repair.

The council ordered the broken slabs of sidewalk repaired.

Catch basins were ordered put in to take care of the surplus water at Ninth and Oak and Sixth and Bluff.

To Publish Ordinance

Publication of the oil ordinance, long delayed, was ordered on motion of Hall and Anderson.

Fire Chief Fuller said that the ordinance will bring to the city $650 in licenses.

Coyne asked if the city had any jurisdiction over the storage of junk by Miles Guin.

The city attorney was instructed to bring in a ruling as to the city's power in the matter.

Quastrom named Anderson, Paine and Hall as delegates to the convention of the League of Minnesota Municipalities at St. Cloud on June 17, 18, 19.

The Broad Highway

Not so many years ago a shopping expedition was a task calling for the expenditure of a great deal of time and energy. Roads were poor, particularly in the country. And, after having toiled to the market places, the shopper had to use unusual discrimination to be sure of getting the things that best suited the family's needs.

All that is changed. Paved roads in city and country make transportation swift, safe and easy. And advertising is like one of those highways, leading straight to the mark, permitting speedy, economical buying. Giving information. Enabling choices to be made at home. Reducing shopping to the easy selection of brands of known quality. Eliminating buying puzzlement and doubts. Saving you minutes and hours for other things—amusements, reading, culture, family duties. Reducing wear and tear on mind and body and money.

It pays to travel this new, modern road . . . this broad highway paved with printers' ink. Read the advertisements.

ATTORNEY GENERAL TO RULE ON STATE GRADE

Council Wants to Know What Responsibilities City Assumes for Highway No. 2 Grade

NEW PAVING CONSIDERED

Engineer to Make Estimate of Cost in Paving Downtown Alleys; May Pave Cemetery Hill

Considerable thought was given by the city council last evening to a former resolution accepting the responsibility in the establishment of the grade for Trunk Highway No. 2 through the city as voted the Minnesota Highway Department.

To protect the city, the aldermen on motion of George E. Erickson and Wm. Coyne requested City Attorney W. J. Swanson to secure a ruling from the attorney general's office on the protective clause as to the city's responsibility.

Further discussion on the resolution which City Engineer R. T. Campbell contended was a state procedure when the Minnesota Highway Department builds through a city was brought to the front immediately at the commencement of the meeting by V. E. Quansstrom, council president.

The council head asked the question why it was that the city should assume such a responsibility.

"I think the resolution should be killed here right now and a new one adopted," he said and asked for the legal advice of the city attorney on the matter.

Mr. Swanson told the members that if it was their wish that he look into the matter further he would be glad to do so but he was under the impression that the council was favorable to it at the former meeting.

Verner F. Anderson said he believed it to be true that the state would not desire to enter a city unless the city would accept the responsibility of the grade.

"I can't remember that the council passed such a resolution for other highways in the city," President Quansstrom voiced.

Alderman Erickson was of the belief that there would be little change from the city grade.

Speaking further on the subject, Mr. Quansstrom said that as the route of the highway exists dangerous crossings must be passed over by traffic to get to the highway.

"Of course the highway department goes anywhere they want to. Personally I don't care if the highway doesn't hit Brainerd at all," he said. City Engineer Campbell said that as far as the city assuming the responsibility is concerned it is no greater than if the city was doing the work itself. The grades on Main street are established.

"As far as liability to the city is concerned I can see but one resident, a property owner on Richard street in West Brainerd, that might have a complaint. In the case of a court action it is doubtful if he could collect," Mr. Campbell said.

The city engineer went further to state that if any liability was incurred at this property it would be slight, possibly about $300 and that such a small expense would be compensated by three miles of new paving to the city of Brainerd and a new concrete bridge over the Mississippi river at a cost not less than $250,000.

"You understand that when the city assumes the responsibility of the grade it is only property damage and no other liability. In talking the matter over with Mr. Harholdt of the highway department and Mr. Swanson (city attorney) it was suggested that the man in West Brainerd be interviewed and an agreement reached," he said.

Mr. Campbell was further of the opinion that even the lowering of the grade would not damage the man's property.

Alderman Chris Elvig said the resolution was similar to those passed by other cities where the highway department operates.

"If you desire me to I can look into the matter and find out if other cities have similar arrangements," City Attorney Swanson suggested.

"I am sure that the attorney general's department will heartily cooperate," Mr. Campbell said.

The discussion closed with the matter referred to the city attorney.

Signs Protection Asked

County Highway Engineer Walter M. Murphy appeared before the council as a representative of the Lions club of Brainerd to ask protection of signs purchased by the club to direct tourists to points of interest outside the city.

"These signs have been replaced in some instances four times. They have been defaced and damaged," he said.

Quansstrom—"I have asked several times why have we a police department and let such things exist."

Elvig—"We are handicapped by lack of policemen."

Quansstrom—"Sure we are when the cops stand on the street corners. If the cops would hit the ball they would get somewhere."

On motion of Aldermen Anderson and Erickson the request for protection was referred to the police committee to petition the Civil Service Commission for relief.

Band Promise Made

Archie R. Falconer, appearing in behalf of the Crow Wing County Farm Bureau requested the council to give the Brainerd Municipal Band permission to play at the Bureau picnic at Lum Park, Saturday, June 27.

Mr. Falconer said the village of Crosby had consented to permit the boys band of Crosby to play and since funds of the Bureau were limited it would be appreciated if the city band would play. He said that merchants were cooperating in donations to make the picnic a huge success. He mentioned also the fact that Governor Floyd B. Olson would be a speaker and that the picnic would attract a large number to Brainerd.

Mr. Quansstrom suggested that since the council has the right of designating three dates on which the band will play outside the regular seasonal programs each Wednesday evening, this occasion would warrant it.

The request was granted on motion of Aldermen Coyne and Anderson.

Grant Gas Station Licenses

Licenses to operate two gasoline filling stations on applications were granted.

These affected John Anderson who informed the council that he planned to remove the building known as the "Last Turn Saloon" and erect a two pump gas station there, and the application of J. C. Thompson to construct a filling station at 1020 Main street for two pumps.

May Establish Grade

Following the request of E. W. Paine and W. A. Eastling for curbing from the east side of Ninth street to the east end of Lot 24, Block 160, and Lot 13, Block 142, both lots on Holly street east of Ninth, the council instructed the city engineer and street committee to enter the proposition with the view of establishing a grade and to then complete the work, the two property owners to meet the expense.

Asks Alley Relief

In a letter from A. M. Opsahl, attention was directed to the alley entering on Seventh street between Laurel and Front streets in Block 43 where water stands on the cross walk after rains and causes an unsightly condition in the alley.

City Engineer Campbell suggested that a grade be fixed in the alley.

Alderman Frank B. Johnson suggested that since there is considerable agitation for the paving of alleys in downtown Brainerd, the engineer be instructed to fix a grade at the alley requested. His motion to this effect was seconded by Alderman Erickson.

Consider Alley Paving

Later in the meeting the council considered further improvements of downtown Brainerd alleys and on motion of Aldermen W. H. Hall and Johnson moved that the city engineer secure an estimate of cost of paving the alleys so considered.

Alderman Hall said that Con O'Brien had planned to attend the meeting and voice such an expression but that illness prevented him.

Approve Retirement Clause

Approval of a retirement resolution for city employees who desire to become members of the Public Employees Retirement Association was given.

Letters giving information on the retirement status were read by Mrs. E. T. Fleener, city clerk, who said that she for one was interested.

"I am sure that city employees will be interested. It is not compulsory for anyone to become a member. If desired, membership and eligibility for retirement may be taken out by the employee, deductions of 3 1/2 per cent of salary being made towards the retirement fund. She said that the retirement age had been set at 65 years.

On motion of Aldermen Anderson and Hall a resolution was adopted permitting city employees to join the association if they desire.

The pension plan also includes officers of the school district.

Grant Removal Rights

Fire Chief Frank W. Fuller reported that the building complained of to the rear of the Northeast Brainerd Community building would be removed and a garage purchased from Block 82 would be moved there.

The report brought to mind the request of parties purchasing buildings on Block 82 and the council granted the removal of all buildings from the block with the understanding that any damage to street property be met. It was passed on motion of Anderson and Elvig.

City Engineer Campbell reported that grading on Vine street from Sixth to Fourth and on Park from Vine to the south end of Park street would require about 2,000 cubic yards of earth to cover the 1200 lineal feet of street. He estimated the cost at approximately $2500. The city's share for the grading of intersections would be between $300 and $400 he estimated.

On motion of Elvig and Anderson the council instructed the city clerk to advertise for bids returnable on July 13.

The city attorney reported that a family from Cass county had moved in Crow Wing county and that he was asking their removal before they became county charges.

Finance Chairman Anderson reported that the treasurer had made a drawing but that the city would get a settlement some time this month. Generally the finances of the city were in good shape, he said.

Pay for Police Equipment

Alderman Johnson, chairman of the police committee, reported that the Chief of Police had requested the council to meet the cost of the Sam Brown belts purchased and to make an appropriation for new stars and badges. The same was granted on motion of Johnson and Hall, the cost not to exceed $40.

The motion brought on a general discussion of Sam Brown belts, badges and policemen in general.

Alderman J. M. Frederick said the belts now worn by Brainerd policemen were not popular in other sections of the country.

Hall disagreed saying that this type of belt was worn a great deal in the east.

Johnson said that the Sam Brown belt was the standard belt of officers in the U. S. Army and that they gave the policemen a more metropolitan aspect.

"Our policemen must be up to snuff," he said.

"They make our cops look like somebody," was Elvig's opinion.

Ask Bus Depot

Alderman Johnson reported that he had received complaints from motorists and merchants concerning the parking of busses on Eighth street near the corner of Laurel street.

"Motorists have been tagged for parking there when busses are not on the street and the merchants are complaining that failure to find a parking place for their customers is hurting trade," he said.

Alderman Coyne said he failed to understand why the busses were allowed to park there.

"The bus company does not benefit the town. The busses don't get gas here and they take money out of town. I am in favor of the company building its own bus depot and not park their busses on the street," he said.

On motion of Erickson and Coyne the city clerk was instructed to write the Northland Greyhound Bus Co., telling the company to find a suitable place for a bus depot within 60 days.

Frederick requested that police be instructed to enforce the traffic regulation requiring motorists to make an outside turn at intersections other than Sixth and Laurel where an inside left turn is required.

Quansstrom was of the opinion that there should be inside left turns on all intersections downtown.

Anderson said the cost of erecting signs would be too great to warrant the change.

City Engineer Campbell said he would secure prices on signs for the information of the council.

Frederick presented another complaint.

"We should do something about the parking of trailers and big trucks on the streets downtown. They become dangerous to traffic. The police department should be instructed to check up on them and not to permit any lengthy parking," he said.

Alderman Johnson said he would bring the matter to the attention of the police.

Cemetery Hill Improvement

Hall appealed for relief at Cemetery Hill and Terrace avenue.

"We are spending considerable money for its upkeep. Every time it rains, the road washes out. Let us get in touch with the Cemetery Association and ask for financial assistance in paving."

The suggestion was accepted and on motion of Hall and Coyne a committee consisting of the city attorney, city engineer, chairman of the finance committee and the chairman of the street committee was instructed to appeal to the Cemetery Association concerning plans for paving and to report at the next meeting.

Dogs Again Complained Of

The council was still discussing streets.

"Now Mr. Chairman, do dogs come under the heading of streets or do streets come under the heading of dogs. Anyhow I have a complaint to offer," Hall said.

The second ward alderman said that dogs were harming gardens and shrubbery and in some cases there was no way of learning the ownership of the dog as it was without a license.

"I would like to know if dogs can be forced to wear tags," he asked.

The city attorney said it was not compulsory under the ordinance for a dog to wear a license as long as the owner has taken one out.

Johnson—"I am sure that any self respecting, well dressed dog will not appear on the streets of Brainerd without a tag."

Coyne—"If the dogs stayed on the streets it would be alright but it is when they leave the streets that they do the damage."

Repairs to be Made

Coyne reported the sidewalk on Sixth street between Vine and Tamarack in need of repair.

The council ordered the broken slabs of sidewalk repaired.

Catch basins were ordered put in to take care of the surplus water at Ninth and Oak and Sixth and Bluff.

To Publish Ordinance

Publication of the oil ordinance, long delayed, was ordered on motion of Hall and Anderson.

Fire Chief Fuller said that the ordinance will bring to the city $650 in licenses.

Coyne asked if the city had any jurisdiction over the storage of junk by Miles Guin.

The city attorney was instructed to bring in a ruling as to the city's power in the matter.

Quansstrom named Anderson, Paine and Hall as delegates to the convention of the League of Minnesota Municipalities at St. Cloud on June 17, 18, 19.

"New Iso-Vis Proved Excellent in BUICK"

Reports A.A.A.

EXCELLENT is hardly the word. Read these facts gathered on the Indianapolis Speedway and certified by the American Automobile Association.

- 1 New Iso-Vis did not thin out from dilution.
- 2 During entire 9,000 mile tests, all parts of engine and chassis were lubricated effectively.
- 3 Only 1 quart of oil—Iso-Vis 50 (Heavy)—was used in 1,000 miles at 30 m. p. h.
- 4 Carbon formed was only 5.4 grams per cylinder at 30 m. p. h. using Iso-Vis 50 (Heavy).

5 The cylinder wear was too little to measure.

New Iso-Vis stands out on every one of these important qualities. Here are figures for other oils to shoot at.

They give dramatic proof of the protection given by New Iso-Vis—the only motor oil that will not thin out from dilution.

The Broad Highway

Not so many years ago a shopping expedition was a task calling for the expenditure of a great deal of time and energy. Roads were poor, particularly in the country. And, after having toiled to the market places, the shopper had to use unusual discrimination to be sure of getting the things that best suited the family's needs.

All that is changed. Paved roads in city and country make transportation swift, safe and easy. And advertising is like one of those highways, leading straight to the mark, permitting speedy, economical buying. Giving information. Enabling choices to be made at home. Reducing shopping to the easy selection of brands of known quality. Eliminating buying puzzlement and doubts. Saving you minutes and hours for other things—amusements, reading, culture, family duties. Reducing wear and tear on mind and body and money.

It pays to travel this new, modern road . . . this broad highway paved with printers' ink. Read the advertisements.

PASSENGER TRAIN STRIKES FREIGHT

NEW YORK COMMUTER RAMS A STEEL PILLAR, REBOUNDS TO HIT ANOTHER FREIGHT

New York, June 16.—(UP)—Two or three cars of a New York, New Haven and Hartford passenger train, inbound from New Rochelle, N. Y., were derailed in a wreck at 233rd Street and Woodlawn Avenue this morning, according to a report reaching the Manhattan dispatcher's office.

Reports said that one man was killed and six others injured, two possibly fatally. The injured were taken to Fordham hospital.

The passenger train, running on the Stamford division of the road, side-swiped a freight train and one of the passenger coaches telescoped, according to reports.

The passenger train was a fast commuter train.

After striking the freight train, the rear car of the passenger train rammed into a steel pillar and then rebounded to strike another freight train on an adjoining track. The rear car, a smoking car, was badly wrecked and first reports indicated.

Immediately after the crash a small fire broke out in the wreckage but was promptly extinguished, police said.

SUGGESTS DAD FIND "EASIEST WAY OUT"

COLLEGE BOY'S ADVICE TO HIS FATHER MAY HAVE CAUSED SUICIDE

Chicago, June 16.—(UP)—A college boy's advice to his father that suicide was "the easiest way out" was believed today by authorities to have caused R. J. Capron, 60, gray-haired and well-dressed, to walk into Lincoln Park and kill himself with a revolver.

In the shadow of Grant's monument, Capron apparently bowed his head over a letter from the son, "John," as he fired a bullet into his brain.

The letter read:

"Dear Dad: I am sorry I have not more time to write, but my examinations begin tomorrow and there remains still so much to be done on preparation. I received your letters of Saturday and Sunday just a few moments ago. Came home from the library to get them. 'I am sorry we are leaving. I am wishing for you, dear dad, hoping for you—wishing you all I can wish—thinking of you all the time. If we get a break it will be a grand thing, dad. 'If we do not, find the easy way out, dear dad. Know that I will be thinking of you—grand thoughts, dad. I will be hoping that I can be as game as my dad was. And I will always remember the while we spent alone together, too, dad. But if you must, if the breaks are not with us, do find a simple way, medicine—something—I am sure you know why I am saying it.'"

"X X X X X Love, from John."

In a note, the man directed his body to be dedicated to medical research and added, "There is no place in the world for an old man alone and destitute."

He apparently had considered his son's suggestion of "medicine"—something—as he carried a bottle of poison on which the seal had been broken.

Little was known of the elder Capron except that he recently had become poor and that he had gone to Washington Park every day for a week to bet on the horse races but had failed to pick winners. He had $1.85 in his pockets when found in the park.

Paper for Currency

Paper currency is engraved and printed on one grade of paper, which is purchased under contract from the Crane company, Dalton, Mass. Representatives of the Treasury department are maintained in the Crane factory during the manufacture of this particular paper. The Crane company is also under the supervision of the Treasury department's representatives during the delivery of the paper to the bureau of engraving and printing. No outside person can buy this paper.

Landscape Architecture

The modern scope of the art and expression of landscape architecture is expressed in the following definition by the late President Eliot of Harvard: "Landscape architecture is primarily a fine art, and as such its most important function is to create and preserve beauty in the surrounding of human habitations and in the broader natural scenery of the country, but it is also concerned with promoting the comfort, convenience and health of urban populations."

Slow-Moving Stream

The Gulf stream of the Atlantic moves with a rate of travel of no more than forty miles a day.

Red, White Figured Jotton, Inset Pleats, Collar, Belt of White.

designers here and abroad have been directed to producing sports dresses that are at once appropriate and smart, and the modern house dress follows very closely in the path of the sports dress.

Many of the new cotton dress show a color contrast that gives them unusual distinction. The darker section may comprise the skirt portion attached to a hip yoke which is a continuation of the lighter bodice section, or the darker portion may comprise the skirt and lower portion of the bodice, with deep bodice of lighter shade. Brown pique is combined with a soft yellow pique, this way or dark blue pique with white pique. Green and white and deep rose and white are similarly combined.

Among the materials used for a group of generally useful summer dresses one finds plaid checked gingham, cotton broadcloth, white or colored pique, cotton shantung and linen.

Voile, batiste, lawn and swiss are used for dresses of sheerer sort that many women will wear this summer as they might have worn silk dresses in past seasons.

Some of the new cotton or linen dresses are made with accompanying jackets that extend their usefulness. Usually these jackets are of a darker shade than the dresses. A white dress trimmed with navy blue or black-brown may have a short straight jacket of the darker color. Usually these dresses are sleeveless or short sleeved with a long-sleeved jacket.

Tailored Costume Leads in Summer Sports Wear

The return of tailored things to leadership in sports fashions is indicated by the new summer models. The feminine type of dress or suit has given way to plain, well-fitted costumes for spectator as well as active sports. Suits with quite short jackets, and made of flannel, tweeds or knit fabrics are specially favored. Stress is placed on pleats and pleated effects.

Jackets of short bolero effect treated in various ways to give more the effect of the top of a one-piece dress or overblouse are made of plain material when the dress is printed or of plaid or striped effect when the dress is of plain color.

Hostess Pajamas

More and more are hostess pajamas taking on an aspect of greater elegance. So wide and flaring are the trousers that one must look twice to see that they are not skirts. And materials are truly gorgeous. One model has a short jacket of rose velvet worn over pajamas of brilliant-hued printed silk.

House Dress Now Popular in Mode

Has as Much Claim to Distinction as Any Other Part of Wardrobe.

Never have we seen a more gracious frock for the young girl than this one. Its obvious daintiness is solely in its lines, for it is quite devoid of all trimming. The line of the shoulder yoke which extends over the curve of the shoulder is very appealing. It has grace and freedom of movement in the circular skirt joining the hip-yoke in pointed seaming, with an applied front yoke tied at the center in a casual knot. Sleeves in this sketch may be substituted with arm flares. It is a suitable and charming frock for any young girl or small woman. It's very smart with yoke and arm flares made of lace, and triple georgette used for the rest of the frock.

PASSENGER TRAIN STRIKES FREIGHT

NEW YORK COMMUTER RAMS A STEEL PILLAR, REBOUNDS TO HIT ANOTHER FREIGHT

New York, June 16.—(U.P.)—Two or three cars of a New York, New Haven and Hartford passenger train, inbound from New Rochelle, N. Y., were derailed in a wreck at 233rd Street and Woodlawn Avenue this morning, according to a report reaching the Manhattan dispatcher's office.

Reports said that one man was killed and six others injured, two possibly fatally. The injured were taken to Fordham hospital.

The passenger train, running on the Stamford division of the road, side-swiped a freight train and one of the passenger coaches telescoped, according to reports.

The passenger train was a fast commuter train.

After striking the freight train, the rear car of the passenger train rammed into a steel pillar and then rebounded to strike another freight train on an adjoining track. The rear car, a smoking car, was badly wrecked and reports indicated.

Immediately after the crash a small fire broke out in the wreckage but was promptly extinguished, police said.

FOOLISH FEELINGS

SUGGESTS DAD FIND "EASIEST WAY OUT"

COLLEGE BOY'S ADVICE TO HIS FATHER MAY HAVE CAUSED SUICIDE

Chicago, June 16.—(U.P.)—A college boy's advice to his father that suicide was "the easiest way out" was believed today by authorities to have caused R. J. Capron, 60, gray-haired and well-dressed, to walk into Lincoln Park and kill himself with a revolver.

In the shadow of Grant's monument, Capron apparently bowed his head over a letter from the son, "John," as he fired a bullet into his brain.

The letter read:

"Dear Dad: 'I am sorry I have not more time to write, but my examinations begin tomorrow and there remains still so much to be done on preparation. I received your letters of Saturday and Sunday just a few moments ago. Came home from the library to get them.'

"I am sorry we are leaving. I am wishing for you, dear dad, hoping for your wishing you all I can wish—thinking of you all the time. If we get a break it will be a grand thing, dad."

"If we do not, find the easy way out, dear dad. Know that I will be thinking of you—grand thoughts, dad. I will be hoping that I can be as game as my dad was. And I will always remember the while we spent alone together, too, dad. But if you must, if the breaks are not with us, do find a simple way, medicine—something—I am sure you know why I am saying it."

"X X X X X X Love, from John."

In a note, the man directed his body be dedicated to medical research and added, "There is no place in the world for an old man alone and destitute."

He apparently had considered his son's suggestion of "medicine"—something—as he carried a bottle of poison on which the seal had been broken.

Little was known of the elder Capron except that he recently had become poor and that he had gone to Washington Park every day for a week to bet on the horse races but had failed to pick winners. He had $1.85 in his pockets when found in the park.

Paper for Currency

Paper currency is engraved and printed on one grade of paper, which is purchased under contract from the Crane company, Dalton, Mass. Representatives of the Treasury department are maintained in the Crane factory during the manufacture of this particular paper. The Crane company is also under the supervision of the Treasury department's representatives during the delivery of the paper to the bureau of engraving and printing. No outside person can buy this paper.

Landscape Architecture

The modern scope of the art and expression of landscape architecture is expressed in the following definition by the late President Eliot of Harvard: "Landscape architecture is primarily a fine art, and as such its most important function is to create and preserve beauty in the surrounding of human habitations and in the broader natural scenery of the country, but it is also concerned with promoting the comfort, convenience and health of urban populations."

The art and skill of the greatest dressmakers and designers here and abroad have been directed to producing sports dresses that are at once appropriate and smart, and the modern house dress follows very closely in the path of the sports dress.

Many of the new cotton dress show a color contrast that gives them unusual distinction. The darker section may comprise the skirt portion attached to a hip yoke which is a continuation of the lighter bodice section, or the darker portion may comprise the skirt and lower portion of the bodice, with deep bodice of lighter shade. Brown pique is combined with a soft yellow pique, this way or dark blue pique with white pique. Green and white and deep rose and white are similarly combined.

Among the materials used for a group of generally useful summer dresses one finds plaid checked gingham, cotton broadcloth, white or colored pique, cotton shantung and linen.

Voile, batiste, lawn and swiss are used for dresses of sheerer sort that many women will wear this summer as they might have worn silk dresses in past seasons.

Some of the new cotton or linen dresses are made with accompanying jackets that extend their usefulness. Usually these jackets are of a darker shade than the dresses. A white dress trimmed with navy blue or black brown may have a short straight jacket of the darker color. Usually these dresses are sleeveless or short sleeved with a long-sleeved jacket.

Tailored Costume Leads in Summer Sports Wear

The return of tailored things to leadership in sports fashions is indicated by the new summer models. The feminine type of dress or suit has given way to plain, well-fitted costumes for spectator as well as active sports. Suits with quite short jackets, and made of flannel, tweeds or knit fabrics are specially favored. Stress is placed on pleats and pleated effects.

Jackets of short bolero effect treated in various ways to give more the effect of the top of a one-piece dress or overblouse are made of plain material when the dress is printed or of plaid or striped effect when the dress is of plain color.

Hostess Pajamas

More and more are hostess pajamas taking on an aspect of greater elegance. So wide and flaring are the trousers that one must look twice to see that they are not skirts. And materials are truly gorgeous. One model has a short jacket of rose velvet worn over pajamas of brilliant-hued printed silk.

COQUETTISH SLEEVE

Although everyone is very much aware of the fact that cotton has risen from the kitchen to the ballroom, that it is now famous for ubiquitous chic and most lovely in the form of lace, not everyone knows that when this frock was made entirely of dead white cotton lace, it was called "Vision." Even the coquettish sleeve looked celestial. But when this frock is done in more worldly colorings, it assumes a more sophisticated role. Here, for instance, it is very sophisticated, for it's made of beige cotton lace, with red banding richly binding the sleeves, neck and waist. Pictorial Printed Pattern No. 5536.
